Youngstown Company's Two Plants In Chicago Area Not In Agreement

PRESIDENT PURNELL REFUSES TO SIGN

Believe Effort To Be Made To Operate Plants In Near Future

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 2.—C.I.O. pickets guarded the gate. of Youngstown Sheet & Tube company's two plants in the Calumet area today as officials of the steel company refused to join in the truce agreement under which 10,000 employes of Inland Steel company went back to their jobs.

While Labor Commissioner Thomas R. Hutson of Indiana was striving to bring Youngstown officials into a strike settlement the company moved a string of Pullman coaches and several hundre. workers into the South Chicago plant to begin firing up the cold furnaces. This move indicated the company was preparing to withstand a long siege.

There was some indication, however, that Hutson's efforts might bring an agreement. The labor commissioner said several East Chicago officials of the company had left to confer with company executives at Cleveland. Hutson said he expected to receive Youngstown's final decision at noon today.

Governors Hopeful

Gov. M. Clifford Townsend of Indiana said he was still hopeful of effecting a truce between the Steel Workers' Organizing committee and Youngstown under which the company's Indiana Harbor plant may resume production.

Frank Purnell, president of Youngstown, accused Gov. Townsend of hindering the "back to work" movement in the steel strike.

Purnell declared:

"This company will not make any agreement with the Committee for Industrial Organization or the Steel Workers' Organization committee, directly or indirectly, and will not make any such agreement through the governor's office."

Inland In Production

With C.I.O. pickets withdrawn from Inland's plants under the truce negotiated by Gov. Townsend, 10,000 employes were whipping production back toward normal. Within a few days officials hoped to have more than 13,000 men back on the payrolls.

A statement from Wilfred Sykes, assistant to the president of Inland, informed the returning workers the company had not altered its labor

Republic's Plant Is Reopened This Morning—Guardsmen On Duty

(International News Service)

CANTON, O., July 2.—Another bombing added to the tension today as the back-to-work movement gained impetus here and two Republic Steel divisions opened in nearby Massillon.

An explosion ripped the back porch from the home of Matt Perish, a Republica Steel worker, and blew out windows in three other houses. No one was injured.

At Massillon, eight miles from here, where trouble had been threatened when Republic's Central Steel and Union Drawn Steel divisions reopened this morning, police said more than 400 men passed through picket lines into the plants without molestation.

Accident Occurs On Mercer-Greenville Road On Thursday Evening

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., July 2.—Death took a holiday Thursday and spared the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reigard and their 19-year-old nephew, Stanley Hall, of Brackenridge.

The automobile in which they were riding, however, was almost completely demolished when it struck the side of Munnell Run bridge on the Mercer-Greenville road, a mile out of Mercer, broke through and plunged twelve feet to the shallow creek.

Young Hall, the driver, received lacerations and had bruises, and is still in Mercer Cottage hospital. Mrs. Reigard received a fractured wrist and bruises, and after treatment was discharged from the hospital. Her husband was uninjured.

Hall is quoted as saying that he must have fallen asleep at the wheel. They had been enroute home from the Pymatuning lake where they had gone for the opening of the fishing season. The accident happened at about 5 p. m.

Leaders Of One Japanese Group Demand Severance Of Relations With Soviet

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, July 2.—The Amur river crisis was catapulted into Japan's turbulent political arena today as representatives of the Seisanto (Reactionary) party demanded the Japanese government sever diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union.

Leaders of the Seisanto group, which supports Japan's militant military clique and hotly opposes liberal tendencies, voiced the demand when they visited Premier Fuminaro Konoye, Foreign Minister Koki Hirota, War Minister Sugiyama and Navy Minister Mitsumasa Yonae.

They handed the "big four" government ministers a resolution adopted by the party requesting relations with the U. S. S. R. be broken off as a result of the clash between Soviet and Japanese-Manchukuoan forces at Sennufu Island in the Amur river, dividing line between Siberia and Manchukuo.

Court Delays Making Ruling On C.I.O. Request

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., July 2—CIO'S plea for resumption of the "status quo" on the militia-guarded Ohio steel strike front was given another setback today when federal Judge Mell G. Underwood said he would not consider granting a temporary restraining order until Tuesday, July 6.

Underwood decided he would reply upon a three-judge court to rule on whether one or three judges should preside at a hearing in which SWOC officials seek to enjoin national guard troops from patroling the strike territory.

The judge said he would take under advisement Tuesday the merits of the case and decide whether he would issue a temporary restraining order regardless of his success in assembling a three-judge court.

Mr. Neuroh was a volunteer fireman and with several members of the department had been out for a trial run. He stepped off not noticing the approaching machine, was hit and dragged 12 feet. Dr. McKay was traveling toward Grove City.

Rushed to the Mercer Cottage hospital it was found that he had a fractured pelvis, broken right leg, a dislocated ankle, and bad bruises.

Suicide Pact Unsuccessful

Two Women Take Overdose Of Sleeping Tablets, Death Fails To Come

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Me., July 2.—Apparent victims of a suicide pact which failed, the unconscious bodies of Miss Ruth Lucille Stewart, 36, head of the medical department at the exclusive Hotchkiss private school, Lakewood, Conn., and her assistant, Miss Margaret Grant Elliott, were found sprawled across twin beds at a hotel today.

Police said a note found beside the bodies indicated a pact to die together.

Both women were taken to Maine General hospital suffering from an overdose of sleeping tablets, according to physicians. Miss Elliott suffered deep gashes on the wrist, inflicted by a razor blade.

Discovery was made by the clerk who answered a telephone call from the room and heard a woman's voice scream:

"For God's sake, get me a doctor quick."

Five were in a serious condition at a hospital while nine others were taken to their homes for treatment of burns and shock.

Mrs. Ernest Miller and Mrs. May Ladelle of Billings, Mont., beauty school student, died this morning. Mrs. Miller's four-year-old daughter, Katherine, also was fatally burned. Ardyce Pazek, 9, and Mrs. T. C. Daniels, 29, beauty parlor operator, were the other victims.

Suspects In Girl Slayings Are Released

Police Believe Late Discovery May Afford Clue As To Slayer On Coast

OVER 100 PERSONS ARE QUESTIONED

One Suspect Arrested Has Been Exonerated—Is Not Identified

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, July 2—Described as the "most important clue to date" police chemists today found tiny scrapings of paint under the fingernails of one of the little girls murdered in the Englewood triple fiend slaying.

The paint scrapings were found by chemist Ray Pinker, after he had bent over his microscope seeking additional clues all night.

"These scarpings which were under the nails of one hand only, probably came from the hands or clothes of the slayer as the little girl fought against him," Pinker said.

The scrapings were found under the nails of eight-year old Melba Everett. No scrapings were found under the nails of the other two victims—her sister, Madeline, 7, and Jeannette Stephens, 8 Pinker said.

Examine Hundred Suspects

Police, hopeful that this evidence of the little girl's struggle against the fiend may be the means of tracking him to earth, started at once on an attempt to trace down the scrapings.

Meanwhile, as nearly a hundred suspects have been examined and exonerated in the case, the investigators today announced a re-organization of the direction of the fiend hunt.

Only one of the many suspects was actually booked in jail. He was Luther Dow, 33-year-old transient, who supplied a new sensation in the case when he admitted authoring a series of love letters to Nancy Carroll, screen star, but who today had been "completely absolved" of any connection with the crime.

Officers said failure on the part of important witnesses to identify him as being the man who lured the three little girls from the park in suburban Inglewood had caused him to be exonerated.

Other suspects have supplied bizarre angeles to the case, but none has led toward the eventual apprehension of the cirminal, police admitted.

Three Are Executed For Holdup Murder

(International News Service)

OSSINING, N. Y., July 2.—The wanton murder of Isaac Shain, 55-year-old delicatessen dealer, during a holdup in a Brooklyn tavern last fall stood avenged today.

Three of the gunmen who staged the holdup—during which Shain was shot down at his wife's feet because he didn't raise his hands fast enough—paid for the crime with their lives last night in Sing Sing's grim execution chamber.

"Tough" Tony Garlus, 34-year-old ringleader of the gang, whose blazing gun killed Shain, was the last to die. True to his oft-repeated boast that "he could take it," the "hard guy" went to his death without a whimper. He died without a word, his lips glued to a crucifix.

But Tony was far from tough as he walked the last mile. He was meek and silent. He had "got religion."

Non-Intervention Plan Collapses

By DAVID P. SENTNER

(Copyright, 1937)

LONDON, July 2.—Non-intervention—the device frantically adopted by 27 nervous powers to keep the Spanish civil war from spreading to all Europe—virtually collapsed today.

Failure to reach any agreement to patch up the crumbling neutrality structure, whose foundations were blasted when loyalists allegedly attempted to torpedo the German cruiser Leipzig, will be announced late today by the non-intervention committee, it was learned.

A definite and probably final rift developed when Italy and Germany turned down a proposal that the Britsh and French alone patrol the Spanish coast, and the two democratic nations rejected a new Fascist plan which would abolish the naval patrol entirely.

Compromise Hopeless.

The British, it was authoritatively stated, have decided that it is hopeless to try and reach a compromise with the Germans and Italians standing pat on their plan, and the French, British and Soviets likewise refusing to budge.

Steel Mediation Board Findings Are Made Public

Secretary Perkins Urges That Steel Dispute Be Settled By "Legal Process"

MAKES DEFENSE OF C. I. O. RESPONSIBILITY

Attitude Of Four Independent Steel Concerns Is Revealed In Report

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Making public today the report of the defunct steel mediation board, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins urged that steel mill operators and union leaders be forced to settle their disputes through "legal process."

The board reported it believed the refusal of four steel companies—Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Republic Steel, Inland Steel and Bethlehem Steel—to enter into any agreement with the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, "regardless of the number of employes whom it actually represents, which could be demonstrated by a secret ballot election, is not the way to industrial peace."

Board Disbanded

The board, consisting of Charles P. Taft, 3rd, chairman; Lloyd K. Garrison and Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady, was formally disbanded by the filing of its report with Miss Perkins. She declared she has "other things in mind," which might bring settlement of the seething steel strike.

She added the government has no "immediate formula" for the settle-

WASHINGTON, July 2.—A suppressed news reel of the Memorial Day riot at the South Chicago plant of the Republic Steel Corporation was shown before a hushed and surprised audience of 350 persons today by the Senate Civil Liberties Committee as it continued its investigation of the pitched battle between police and strikers that took the lives of 10 persons.

The film, shown first with sound effects, and then in slow motion, showed in detail the hand fighting between the police and strike pickets.

The film was exhibited publicly by Senator La Follette (P) of Wisconsin, chairman of the committee, after testimony taken in the three day inquiry into the Chicago riots was on record.

Also Says Assembly At Johnstown On July 4 Is To Be Peaceful Gathering

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 2.—Company-wide elections to choose a collective bargaining agency at the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Weirton Steel Company were requested today in petitions filed with the national labor relations board here by the CIO's steel workers organizing committee.

At the same time, Philip Murray, chairman of the SWOC, charged the recent dynamiting of water mains at the Cambria works of Bethlehem was committed by "enemies of our union" and promised wholehearted cooperation with "unbiased and duly constituted" authorities in an investigation of the outrage.

Claims Majority For SWOC

"An overwhelming majority of the employes of these companies have already authorized the SWOC to represent them for collective bargaining purposes," the statement announcing the labor board action read. "An election held under the auspices of the national labor relations board will prove beyond a shadow of doubt the claims of representations made by the SWOC.

Compromise Court Bill Introduced

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The administration's new compromise supreme court bill, authorizing appointment of one new justice each year for every justice remaining on the bench after the age of 75, was introduced in the senate this afternoon by Senator Robinson, (D) the Democratic floor leader.

It marked the official death of President's original supreme court bill, which authorized appointment of six new justices.

This bill would give the president the rgiht to name one new justice this year in addition to filling the vacancy caused by the retirement of Justice Van Devanter. It would assure him of at least one new appointment to the supreme court in each of the remaining years of his term.

The compromise would authorize the appointment of not more than

ROB WOMAN OF JEWELRY

Daring Hold-up In New York City

Report Bandits Get Jewels Worth $100,000 In Street Robbery

BANKER'S WIFE IS VICTIM IN CASE

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 2.—Four bandits held up Mrs. Josephine Forrestal, socially prominent wife of James V. Forrestal, Wall Street banker, and robbed her of $100,000 in jewelry early today in front of her fashionable Beekman Place home, she told police.

Cowing her and her escort, R. B. W. Hall, prominent broker, the thugs escaped in a speeding automobile.

An hour later, the bandit car was found abandoned a dozen blocks away, near a subway station. Police believed the thugs disappeared into the subway.

Gang Operating

The thieves were believed to be the same gang which has preyed upon other prominent people here in recent months. As was the case in other holdups, Mrs. Forrestal and her escort were trailed from a night club.

Mrs. Forrestal told police she and her escort were surrounded by the thugs as they stepped from Hall's limousine, and forced at gun-point into the darkened doorway. After commanding Mrs. Forrestal to strip off her gems, they ordered the pair to "stand there for five minutes without making a move."

The bandits then escaped in a dark sedan parked nearby. As they fled, the license number of the machine was noted by Joseph Roy, a night watchman.

Watchman Powerless

Roy, who had witnessed the hold-up, was powerless to intervene, as he was unarmed.

Fred Tucker, Hall's chauffeur, viewed photographs at the rogue's gallery at police headquarters in an effort to identify possible suspects, but was unable to recognize any of them.

Mrs. Forrestal's husband is vice president and senior partner of Dillon, Read & Co., investment bankers. Hall, who is socially prominent, was divorced in 1932 by Mrs. Dorothy Schiff Hall, only daughter of the late Mortimer L. Schiff, New York banker.

The Beekman Place neighborhood was the scene of the Easter morning triple murder and previously, the slaying of Mrs. Nancy Titterton and the shooting of Dr. Fritz Gebhardt, of which Vera Stretz was acquitted.

Buron Fitts in the case when he was treated for cuts and bruises.

He was not held, however. He told the district attorney he received the cuts in an auto accident. Satterlee came to Inglewood from New York several months ago.

One man who had been questioned in the case hanged himself in the garage of his home. Police said, however, that he had had no connection with the crime.

Meanwhile as a tragic inquest over the three tiny bodies was set for 9:30 a. m. (PST) today, the officers announced re-organization of their investigation.

The primary reason for this, they declared, is the new theory that perhaps some man hitherto unmentioned in the case actually committed the triple slayings.

Theories Changed

Since the bodies were discovered by Boy Scouts Monday officers have concentrated on a search for a man named "Eddie the sailor" who is said to have loitered around the park and who was known to have asked the girls to go "rabbit hunting."

Today officers said they were working on the idea that the killer may have been someone else—possibly someone well known to the two bereaved families.

With this theory in mind, the police, district attorney investigators and sheriff said they would requestion the parents and friends of the slain girls today to see if they could think of anyone else who might have lured them to their deaths.

One suspect already has admitted he is known by the nick-name of "Eddie the sailor" but he established an iron clad alibi, officers said.

Governor Signs Many Measures

Eighty-Three Bills Become State Laws As Result Of His Action

WIDE VARIETY OF MATTERS AFFECTED

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Jply ' 2.—With strikes of his pen, Gov. George H. Earle today put in effect 83 more laws—including the far-reaching bituminous coal code—enacted by the legislature and vetoed five others, bringing a total of 600 laws written into the state statute books and nine rejections.

The bituminous code, sponsored by Sen. John J. Haluska, D, Cambria, places the working conditions in the soft coal fields under stricter state regulation and establishes stringent safety regulations. A companion measure, also signed by the governor, further regulates the certification of bituminous mine foremen and assistant foremen.

The governor also signed a series of measures further "streamlining" the state's educational system. They included bills to:

Permit one-year sabbatical leaves for teachers who have served 10 years, with salaries to continue on the basis of the difference between the regular salary and that paid the substitute; after the first 10 years the same will apply for seven year periods.

Raise the compulsory age of attendance for pupils who are physically handicapped from 16 to 17 during 1938-39 and to 18 for 1939-40 and thereafter.

Establish standards for vehicles used in transportation of pupils, and "a more liberal plan" for making reimbursements by the state to school districts for such costs, and provide for public liability insurance coverage on those engaged in transporting students.

Create county vocational school districts and extend the scope of vocational work.

Other measures signed by the governor included those which: Provides penalties for false advertising in displays and placards;

Requires permit fees and further regulates the storage of explosives; establishes a "revolving" fund for companies writing workmen's compensation insurance, to insure payment of benefits if a company becomes insolvent; enables the state to cooperate with other states in apprehending criminals fleeing across borderlines; permits the general state authority to invest its bonds in public trust funds;

Re-enacts the anthracite mine inspection law, setting up the requirements and standards in selecting inspectors in the hard coal fields; transfers the Mount Alto Forest school to Penn State college;

Provides for a new state tuberculosis sanitorium to be constructed by the general state authority, the site yet to be chosen; licenses bakeries, with certain exceutions; provides penalties for destroying milk bottles; prohibits the sale of goods at less than cost, with certain exemptions.

Creates a seven-member joint legislative commission to study ways of reducing the cost of state government; establishes a 5,000 acre park on Bald mountain in Lackawanna and Luzerne counties; provides for cooperative enforcement of fish laws by Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York.

Among the bills vetoed by the governor were ones which would have:

Prohibited evidence illegally secured to be admitted in criminal cases; permitted third class city treasurers to give fidelity bonds as tax collectors of second class school districts and regulate premium on such bonds.

ment of the strike, but said a number of other adjustment solutions" were under consideration.

Miss Perkins joined with the board in urging a face-to-face conference of the opposing sides as the only solution of the strike problem. On this report the board's report said:

Urge Man-To-Man Conference.

"We cannot but believe that the bitterness and suspicion which separate the two sides would be allayed by a man-to-man discussion around the conference table between the heads of the four companies and the union representatives, and that the only present possible hope of settlement lies in such a meeting."

Replying to a reported assertion of Tom Mercer Girdler, of the Republic Steel Corp., that the CIO was an "irresponsible organization, Miss Perkins said "there is no evidence brought before me to show that CIO is irresponsible.

"It ought to be said for the credit of CIO leaders they have ordered dismissal of workers engaged in sudden strikes," she said. "John Lewis has ordered the automobile union workers to take a firm stand against unauthorized strikes, I am informed."

As to the responsibility of the unions involved she said they embraced such outstanding unions as the United Mine Workers, Amalgamated Clothing Workers, Amalgamated Steel Workers and other unions affiliated with CIO.

"These unions," the secretary said, "are certainly responsible."

In its report the steel mediation board said:

Bethlehem Attitude

"The Bethlehem Steel Corporation stated that under their view of collective bargaining, they were required to meet with the representatives of any of their employes; that they would not question their authority, and that they would discuss with them wages, hours and working conditions.

"The company would later make its decision and if it involved a change in any of these matters they would give notice to all employes through their printed bulletin without any reference to the union or other groups who had secured such a concession.

"They stated that collective bargaining, in their judgment, did not imply an arrival at any agreement, oral or written, with any representatives of their employes. Republic Steel concurred in this view.

"Inland Steel stated they would discuss in collective bargaining the question of whether or not an agreement should be entered into, but they would not enter into an agreement with the Steel Workers Organizing Committee. Youngstown Sheet & Tube concurred in this view."

The report pointed out that John L. Lewis told the board that "if there were objections to him personally which prevented the heads of the companies from meeting with the union representatives, he would be glad to withdraw and eliminate any matter of personalities."

Following his own suggestion, the report said, Lewis then left Cleveland, where the board met, for Washington.

LEADERS OF ONE JAPANESE GROUP DEMAND SEVERENCE

river and North Fuchin points because of the seriousness of the situation.

The Manchukuoan government at Hsinking warned Moscow that if Russian vessels deviate from their regular courses to approach Sennufu or the other disputed islands, Manchukuo will "resort to drastic measures in self defense."

Meanwhile, the foreign office here, according to its official spokesman, awaited fresh advices as to result of Ambassador Mamoru Shigemitsu's renewed demands in Moscow that Soviet troops evacuate the Amur river islands in the vicinity of Sennufu and Bolshoi.

This is Japan's primary demand in the present crisis, and whether the dispute will be settled peacefully largely depends on whether the Soviet Union withdraws its troops. Sovereignty of the islands is disputed by the two nations.

Seek Border Commission

Thereafter, said the Japanese spokesman, establishment of a border commission to effect complete settlement of the controversy will be a "secondary problem"—provided the Soviet forces evacuate.

The spokesman stated, however, he did not know whether further action would be taken by the Japanese army, which is subject to imperial command and outside the realm of the foreign office, and that he could not guarantee that Japanese and Manchukuoan troops would refrain from occupying the islands after the Soviet forces withdraw.

He declared the Soviet gunboat sunk by Japanese-Manchukuoan guns was a craft of 20 tons.

From the tone of his remarks, observers here gathered that the government takes a pessimistic view of the affair.

It was reported the Soviet forces along the Amur river consist of numerous seaplane carriers, supported by 10 infantry divisions, three cavalry divisions and scores of thousands of troops, police and armed emigrants as well as 1,000 armored cars, 1,000 planes, 1,000 tanks and 100 gunboats and other war vessels, including a number of submarines based at Vladivostok.

A dispatch from Hsinking said a heavy Soviet force is being concentrated at the river town of Boyarkov, including more than 10 armed river craft, a large cavalry detachment and several infantry regiments.

Some of the Soviet ships were reported to be 1,000 ton craft armed with 4.9 inch guns.

and vote against this horrible thing, capital punishment," he said. "They should do this to prevent another innocent man from going to the chair for a crime that he did not commit."

Watson Edwards—20 of whose 25 years were spent in orphan asylums—was the second to pass through the little green door. He spoke not a word.

Eisenberg, the "brains" of the gang, came of a good Chicago family. He studied medicine at Heidelberg University and spoke eleven languages. But he turned to kidnaping, and later tied up with the Garius gang.

One Of Gang

Raymond Norton, 23, youngest member of the gang, who had no previous criminal record, was saved from execution less than four hours before his companions met their doom, when Gov. Herbert H. Lehman commuted his death sentence to life imprisonment. It was testified at a clemency hearing that Norton had been dominated by Garius and had no idea that any one would be injured.

Shain, who was unfortunate enough to enter the tavern during the holdup, was shot down when he laughed at the bandits. He thought it was all a joke.

Garius admitted during his trial that he was the actual killer. Asked why he had shot Shain in cold blood, he said his motto had been "never give a sucker an even break" ever since the victim of a previous holdup had called police in time to prevent his getaway.

NON-INTERVENTION PLAN COLLAPSES

a communique announcing failure to agree. It is posisble that the British, at the last minute, may suggest that all sides consider the situation for a few more days and meet again before formally abandoning the non-intervention pact.

A step in this direction was taken when the committee reconvened at 4:40 p. m. Britain moved to confine the wording of the communique to simple announcement of failure to agree on the conflicting proposals. After that adjournment would be taken till next week for reconsideration.

Otherwise, Britain will immediately "reserve freedom of action" and shortly issue a declaration of neutrality.

policy announcement of May 25, the day before the strike against the independent producers began. Sykes' announcement pointed out that no agreement was made with the S. W. O. C.

The settlement was made pending a ruling by the National Labor Relations board in the Inland case as to whether the Wagner Labor Act requires a signed bargaining agreement between the companies and the S. W. O. C.

JAPAN DEMANDS RIGHT TO ISLANDS

Manchukuoan forces likewise withdraw. So far, there has been no intimation of Japanese acceptance of this condition.

The statement said the U. S. S. R. is ready to withdraw its troops from the Amur today, provided Japan withdraws hers from the Manchukuoan side of the river.

Shigemitsu, the communique stated, said appearance of Soviet gunboats and troops at the disputed islands created a tense situation and was the cause of the conflict—therefore the Soviet forces should withdraw first.

Te Resume Negotiations

In reply to this, Litvinov said it was unwise to argue over the legality or illegality of the appearance of the Soviet patrols, terming these points which could be proved at later meetings.

In turn, Shigemitsu promised to study the Soviet proposals and resume negotiations later today.

After his conferences with Litvinov, Shigemitsu was understood to consider the conversation "unsatisfactory" from the Japanese point of view.

He was understood to have insisted that further "invasion" of Manchukuoan waters by Soviet gun boats "would not be tolerated" by Japan, and that an immediate understanding between the two governments could be reached only by immediate withdrawal of at least part of the heavy Soviet troop concentrations near the Amur river waterfront.

Murray declared it was not the purpose of the SWOC to encourage violence or disorders at the mass meeting of 40,000 miners called at Johnstown tomorrow.

"Any mad, inflammatory or prejudicial statements made by the enemies of our organization regarding our responsibility as the leaders of a great trade union or as citizens of the United States shall and will be refuted," he said.

Deny Bombing

"We take occasion at this time to deny that our organization has had anything to do with the bombing outrages recently committed in and around Johnstown. We have good and substantial reasons to believe that these dynamitings were committed by enemies of our union, and it is our purpose to cooperate to the fullest extent with unbiased and duly constituted authorities in investigating these and other illegal acts so that the responsibility may be placed where it properly belongs."

"The mass meeting to be held at Faith Park, Johnstown, at 2 o'clock Sunday, July 4, and called by the SWOC, should not be regarded either as a march upon the city of Johnstown or an invasion of that community," Murray added.

"Interested citizens from all walks of life have been invited, including business men, church people, representatives of fraternal organization and trade unions for the purpose of explaining to interested citizens the point of view of the SWOC and the conditions which precipitated the strike, not only at the properties of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, located in and around Johnstown, but also at the plants of other steel corporations which have refused to sign agreements with out organization."

Rainbow dances are given purposely for the pleasure of the members of the assembly and their friends, and are distinctive because of the invitational feature, and the registration of the young people at every dance, in addition to the excellence of the music always provided.

The Advisory Board members are chaperones at every function.

"INCONSPICUOUS HEROINES"

J. EDGAR HOOVER, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, is calling the public's attention to the sacrifices which the government has accepted casually from the widows of slain federal agents.

In a statement praising the "inconspicuous heroines", the head of the famous G-Men points out that the government has made no appropriation for awards to widows or dependents of the federal men killed in action. Their only compensation is from a fund created through donations by the agents themselves.

This seems a serious oversight on the part of a government which has in years past attempted to properly reward its heroes. Millions have been spent in adjusted service compensations for the World War soldiers and in payments to the veterans of the Civil and Spanish American wars and their widows.

We can see similarity between the G-Men and the soldiers who braved the dangers of the front. These peace-time officers have fought a gallant war during the last few years to free their nation from the reign of the criminal and in the battle many have fallen under the fire of gangster guns.

The public is quick to praise the efforts of the G-Men, but the praise is apparently hollow. Some action should be taken by congress immediately to provide awards for the dependents of the federal agents who have died while doing their duty.

FURTHER FARM LEGISLATION?

With an estimated cash income for 1937, the largest in eight years, bumper crops for which there will evidently be a good market and the house and senate in agreement on a $630,000,000 appropriation for agriculture in 1938, the American farmer seems to be doing fairly well.

Half a billion dollars will be paid to those who join in the soil conservation program. The senate wanted to make it $60,000,000 less, but acceded to the wishes of the house, all of those members come up for re-election next year.

Now, it appears, administration leaders are perturbed over white house insistence on enactment of this session of the new farm legislation advocated by Secretary Wallace. They say there is not time to study all the ramifications of this ambitious plan for what amounts to compulsory crop control and a regimentation of the farmers far exceeding that imposed by the old AAA.

The proposed prohibitive tax on farmers who do not comply with the plan is enough alone to condemn it. This feature is as bad as the now happily defunct potato control and cotton regulation acts.

Nature seems to be providing the best possible farm relief plan this year. Congressional leaders recently announced that there would be no new farm legislation this year, except for tenant farmers. They should stick to this decision.

THE WEDDING IN DELAWARE

The United States has now had its turn in offering the world our nearest thing to a royal romance, with all the lavish trimmings and no marring factors such as family objections or abdications. The marriage of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Jr., and Miss Ethel du Pont naturally attracted nation-wide interest. As a real love match of a president's son and a lovely heiress, both of old and wealthy families long identified with America's development, both young and charming, it was a notable event. The political opposition of their fathers may have added a piquant note.

Probably it has not escaped representatives of both families that the publicity permitted for every detail of this number one romance of the hour is a splendid good-will factor. Let who will protest the printing of column after column of troth and altar details; this is love, life, wealth, position, in valid abundance. Hollywood has not spoiled America for cheering and vicariously sharing the union of prominent, unspoiled, personable young people.

Alice Roosevelt was similarly feted at her bridal. Charles A. Lindbergh likewise captured the public fancy when he wed. All this concentrated attention on young Roosevelt and the du Pont heiress—as they were meeting, when seen together here and there, becoming engaged, sitting by each other's bedside in grave illnesses and finally at their marriage—is justifiable.

They go on their honeymoon, later settling in Charlottesville, Virginia, followed by the kindly thoughts of those who likewise have known love and those who have not.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

ACCIDENTS TO CHILDREN

Our self-control and understanding of the child and consideration for his rights and feelings are tested when he has an accident. Think of the scores of children scolded, slapped or brutally beaten today for accidents they could no more prevent than could the punisher prevent the accidents which he occasionally has.

The child of three all dressed to go away falls in the mud, or tears or messes up his clothes in some other fashion. Strongly driven to explore and to be in constant action he is hardly able, under normal conditions to remain immaculate very long, unless carefully guarded. Anyway, his limited experience hardly enables him to sense the need of keeping spick and span.

Coming home from a visit, the child of seven or eight might easily engage at play that will wreck his clothes. It's absurd to punish him then. Why had you not seen that he changed to play clothes immediately upon his return? If any punishment could be fair and effective it would be punishment applied immediately upon his failure to change his clothes promptly when he knew he should, but not for the accident.

Nine-year-old Beatrice and her playmate are in a pillow fight. You see them and do nothing until a vase is broken. Then you punish Beatrice. You were responsible for the accident since you knew very well the vase was endangered by their pillow fight. Why did you not forbid the fight? Then if Beatrice had failed to cease at your forbidding she should have been promptly punished for his disobedience. But to condone the dangerous activity of these children by your silence and then punish them for their hard luck could not seem fair to them. Besides, it's influence on their future conduct hardly could be very useful.

Falls In Puddle

Bobby, six years old, is playing with a stick in a puddle of water. You know he's very likely to fall in. You probably warn him that he will. But he feels sure he won't. Soon in he goes and you punish him for his hard luck, although he is already very severely punished.

Any child, as any adult, will have accidents which neither he nor you can foresee. However great the damage incurred by the accident, you should not punish him. Seeing then how its repetition can be avoided, you will guard against such more carefully in the future. Also we are going to be sympathetic and sensible with the child who has an accident in unsuccessful bladder or bowel control after we suposed he had been well trained.

And let us be especially patient with the awkward child just entering his 'teens. Having grown so fast he easily stumbles or drops things and his greater emotional instability then may intensify his awkwardness. Once we were just as awkward, only we forget, it's been so long since then.

All Of Us

SHRINKAGE IS UNHAPPINESS

I KNOW a man who is unhappy,
He doesn't know that is so, but I do.

For at least ten years he has been shrinking—and shrinking is a process for getting less and less out of life as you grow older. . . . A man thinks he wants to be happier, he moans about his unhappiness, but he goes away from joy instead of toward it. He develops an antipathy to life instead of an affection for it. . . . and cannot possibly know happiness as long as he is so pathetically headed in the wrong direction.

That is what happened to this man I know. Year after year I have observed his retreat from the dangers and excitement of living. Year after year I have heard him denying the self that he used to b., sneering at his old hopes, ambitions, faiths, endeavors and ardors. Steadily he has shrunk. Inevitably his spirit has grown crabbed and wrinkled, and joy has grown out of him.

But you need not think that my friend is a special case. What is happening to him happens to many of us. Too many of us stop doing what we used to do, not because we are physically too old to do them—or because we are wiser—but because we are spiritually old—and grown more foolish and AFRAID of life.

Some years ago I read a paragraph by Stewart Edward White that expresses exactly what I am trying to say:

"It is the exceptional man who does not end, to some degree at least, by resorting to a process of withdrawal. He deliberately cuts himself off: he gets away as much as possible. And if he does not watch out, he finishes by carrying over this self-defensive expedient into his life in general, so that he finds himself avoiding, if he can, everything that is either DEMANDING or STIRRING. In his desire to keep out of quicksand he may, in extreme cases, never stir abroad; and in event misses a lot of beautiful county. Of such are the misers, the recluses, the cranks, and all other sterile people."

I hope my unhappy friend reads this and accepts it as a partial description of himself. . . . I hope that I may be able to remember it as long as I live.

"A man went lion-hunting one day in Unganda. He had never hunted lions before and naturally he was very nervous. Soon the track of a lion was discovered.

"The man knelt down and studied the track. It was very fresh. He got up, and after a moment's hesitation, said to his native gun-bearer: "This is what we'll do. You run ahead and see where he went, and I'll run back and see where he came from."

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office.

By Francine Markel

TRAVEL time is upon us—time when we take short trips to escape, at least temporarily, the insufferable heat of Summer. Here are a few rules—important rules of travel—the existence of which is entirely forgotten by the majority of travelers:

If someone is occupying part of a seat in a day coach, it is polite to ask: "Is this seat taken?" before sitting down.

If sitting next to a window, it is courteous to consult the persons surrounding you—those in front of, beside and behind you—before opening or closing it.

Should the window prove too heavy for your strength, ask the assistance of the conductor or the porter, rather than that of a passenger. And don't forget your "thank you!" No tip should be given for such service.

Do not take a seat on which wraps and bags are left, as these indicate that the seat has been reserved. On the contrary, do not take more than your share of room. In a double, coach seat, remember that only half of the seat belongs to one passenger. So do not sit on half and reserve the other half for your baggage, unless there are insufficient passengers to fill the train.

Do not put your feet on the cushion of the seat in front of you and do not turn a seat over to face yours, so that you may stack your bags on it, causing passengers to stand because of your greediness. The racks above the seats are provided for this purpose.

The World At A Glance

Ten Years From Now.
We Must Project Selves Backward.
We May Laugh At Today's Bugaboos.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Columnist

ONE OF THE most successful editors in New York remarked several years ago that no person could write understandingly of the present unless he projected himself into the future and looked back.

Suppos we project ourselves merely 10 years into the future and look back?

H'm—we should be called a radical. Something "worse", perhaps.

Recently we had occasion to read a history of the 90's and the early 1900's. We all seemed terribly stupid in those days. We tried to govern women in the most outrageous manner. And the world was made solely for high-hatted gentlemen.

We COULDN'T go back to that world—even the most hard-shelled reactionary of today could not exist in it.

TOMORROW?

Ten years hence?

There will be even a greater evolution.

The "old men" (in thought) of today will be dead. (I couldn't even recall those of the early 1900's.)

The "radicals" of today, the New Dealers of the present, will be laughed at by the young bloods for their "old-fashioned", "reactionary" thought. Many of the "radical" thinkers of today will become angry with the new radicals and demand that the world be saved from them and their communism, or whatever the bogey cry of ten years hence will be.

It is difficult to believe so now, but in 1913-14 Senator Carter Glass of Virginia was termed a radical. He was curbing the Wall Street racketeers—and they were asserting that he, with the aid of President Wilson, was going to hand the United States over to the communistic wolves.

Even Henry Ford, now attacked as the arch-enemy of organized labor and all that is New Deal, was being denounced by Wall Street as a dangerous radical.

Then ten years hence, or 15 years hence, we are certain to hear from the rising young men of that day that President Roosevelt was quite tepid in his progressivism.

And probably the writer of this column, if he still is alive and chirping, and has any audience at all, will be crying that America must be saved from the dangerous new thought that threatens to topple our institutions.

When one reads the effusions of past generations, he becomes an incurable optimist concerning the future.

According to the elder statesmen (with few exceptions and the vested interests (good old Teddy Roosevelt term and the presidents of the chief seats of "learning", we always were facing doom.

As one reads the effusions of today—and the Wall Street columns—he sees the same sort of thing that spouted all through those pages of the past. And, as far as one can trace, not a single word of those warnings ever came true.

The tragedies that overcame us, depression and war, were due to following a course that the elders of the past said was the road to glory.

We commend to all of you, in doubt today as to the future, the words of our immediate past, and beyond.

Our papers of today are full of fears. I just have counted 20-odd in one of our leading papers. It has quoted nearly every possible elder statesman and financial authority. And not satisfied with that, it has gone to Holland and obtained the fears of the Dutch for our safety.

Should I put that paper away for 10 or 15 years? One of the best-known columnists did that with papers of 10 and 15 and 20 years

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

TRUST THE EXCHANGE

There is an erroneous belief that many transactions on security exchanges are simply for "bookkeeping purposes"—that they do not involve the actual sale and delivery of securities, and the payment of money.

Under the rules laid down by licensed security exchanges and backed up by federal laws, "fake" sales are no longer possible. Each and every transaction represents an actual change of ownership of property, and delivery of the stocks or bonds constituting this property must be made.

Under the rules of the New York Stock Exchange a contract entered into by members of the exchange requires the selling member to tender to the buying member the shares of stock sold before 2:15 p. m. on the second following business day, and at that time the buyer must tender payment in full. The exchange maintains a clearing corporation where stock certificates are delivered to buyers. This corporation credits the seller with the amount due him, then collects from the buyer when it makes delivery.

This rigidly enforced route is truly indicative of the exchange's unremitting effort to make every transaction honest and above board, and to discharge to the full its responsibility to the investing public. Exchange members, attempting to defeat the purpose of such rulings run the danger of suspension or dismissal. The manipulator and the "borderline crook" have been met and frustrated by ever-awake exchange officials who are continually revising and strengthening their rulings as the need arises.

Jamboree Scouts Participate In Big Arena Show

Bronze Neckerchiefs Of Local Troop Much In Demand At Trading Posts

NEW CASTLE BOYS IN TORCH CEREMONY

By ROGER H. HAWK
Special News Correspondent With Jamboree Troop.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 2.—Thursday morning our troop went to the Jamboree arena which is situated on the park lawn just south of the Washington monument. Here we practiced drills and marches which our troop will use in the coming arena show. Another practice was held in the afternoon in preparation for the show in the evening

All of the boys ars having a grand time, eating, sleeping and seeing the sights. Trading of articles is a very popular diversion among the Jamboree scouts. The boys are trading all of their possessions with scouts from foreign lands.

The bronze neckerchief slides, presented to the troop members by the Johnson Bronze company, are very much in demand. Many of the other scouts would give their shirts for them, but our troop members wouldn't part with them for their weight in gold.

Snap shot taking is also a popular diversion of the local troop, with the scouts getting the films developed right on the grounds following their exposure.

All of the locals have seen such celebrities in scouting as Daniel Carter Beard, national scout commissioner, Dr. James E. West, and special correspondent of the Chief Scout of the World, Dick Fraus.

Wednesday evening the New Castle troop took part in a very impressive torch ceremony The scouts marched about one mile and a half to the arena where places were found and the brilliant ceremony started. Thousands of lighted torches were visible about the arena grounds, presenting a very striking sight.

Inland Steel Hearing Before U. S. Labor Board

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 2.—Inland Steel Company, charged with violating the Wagner Labor Act, today continued its fight to get into the national labor relations board trial record testimony that the committee for industrial organization is not a responsible organization.

Efforts to place such testimony before Examiner Charles A. Wood have thus far been balked as Attorney Ernest S. Ballard, counsel for the Inland Company, sought to introduce testimony to support his claim that the steel workers' organizing committee, as part of the C. I. O., was "irresponsible" and therefore the Inland company could not sign a bargaining contract.

Trial Examiner Wood, in overruling testimony that a contract with S. W. O. C. might be used to force steel employes to join that union, declared:

"There are other and more important issues to be decided."

Weather Fools United States

CHICAGO, July 2.—Sharply contrasting conditions, marked by midsummer heat in some sections and the chill of autumn in others, mottled the nation's weather man on Thursday.

Two abnormal factors, hot and dry drought weather in western Canada and the spread of black rust in the United States, prompted traders on the Chicago Board of Trade to bid up wheat prices the allowable limits.

BAHRAS CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

Winifred and Betty Hickling, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hickling, of Boyles avenue, enjoy the unique distinction of having attended the golden wedding anniversaries of grandparents on both sides of the family.

Thursday, they were among the guests at the fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. August Bahra, of 450 Croton avenue, which was observed at "The Cottage," summer home of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Braatz, the latter another daughter, near Harlansburg, on the Perry highway. The other celebration was that of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hickling, which occurred about five years ago.

A third daughter is Mrs. Velma Davis and a third grandchild, is William Bahra Fox.

A family dinner was served at 6 last evening, the large table having places arranged for 12 guests. Gold and white decorations, with a wedding cake for a centerpiece, gold and white china and flowers, in like tones, were most attractive.

In the evening, in the neighborhood of fifty friends and other relatives drove out from town and neighboring vicinity, to extend further felicitations. The venerable couple received lovely gifts to remind them of the happy occasion.

Mrs. Bahra was the former Isabel Marling, of Bellaire, O., where she was united in marriage to Mr. Bahra, in 1892. They came to New Castle four or five years later residing here since. They are prominent members of the First M. E. church.

Mr. Bahra was with the Carnegie Steel Company here for 52 years, having come to this city when the mill was first opened. He received a gold medal upon his retirement a few years ago. They have scores of friends in the community who wish them continued health and happiness.

In Canada.

Decorations about the home were quantities of delphiniums roses and yellow roses, artistic arrangements of these blooms in blue bowls lending beauty to the scene.

Receiving with Mrs. Irvine were Mrs. John Lockhart, chairman of the group; Mrs. Lyle Hughes, Mrs. Roy M. Jamison, Mrs. James Gilfillan, Mrs. Clyde Gilfillan, Mrs. Floyd Lortz and Mrs. Louis Klee.

Miss Rebekah Brown, Mrs. Stewart Foltz, Mrs. Harry Hanna and Miss Elizabeth Gilfillan presided in turn at the teatable, and the aides were Misses Agnes Gilfillan, Jane Martin, Grace Ingham, Helen Campbell, Marian Lockhart and Mary Gaston.

Given another batch of pheasant eggs, she hatched out five chicks and then went back to the stones. Now she is perched on half a dozen quail eggs. After that its going to be a problem to find something for "Biddie" to hatch.

Beaver County Official Says He Will Enforce Law Impartially

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., July 2.—Denouncing violence along the strike front in Beaver county, District Attorney R. E. McCreary said today he would lend the full power of his office for the enforcement of law for the protection of workers, strikers and pickets alike.

Noted Here And There In Other Newspapers

Canton, O., firemen had to climb through a window to capture a two-year-old boy who locked himself in a bathroom at the apartment of Samuel Kotsen, turned on the water in the tub and defied all comers. The water was flooding the room when they entered.

The Rev. Frederick Ashton, who officiated at the marriage of Ethel DuPont and Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., at rustic Christ Episcopal church in Christiana Hundred, Del., is the brother of a New Brighton minister, the Rev. Mortimer S. Ashton. His father, Archdeacon Amos T. Ashton, now deceased, was for many years rector of the Hyde Park Episcopal church, of which the Roosevelts were members.

There is more than one way to make an eggnog. Near Denver the other day a market truck loaded with 15,000 eggs collided with a milk truck. Contents of both vehicles splattered to the pavement. To add to the melee, a hundred chickens escaped from the egg truck and were chased by a horde of small boys.

Pymatuning was nothing but a vast expanse of marsh land at the head of the Shenango river until a few years ago. It derived its name from the Delaware Indians, who called it "the crooked mouthed man's dwelling place". Construction of the dam, started in 1931, cost approximately three and one-half million dollars. Its purpose is to prevent floods and provide sufficient water for Shenango and Beaver valleys during dry seasons, but already it is winning fame as "one of the world's finest fishing grounds" and "fisherman's paradise". It was thrown open to the anglers yesterday.

RECOVERING A LOSS!

The milk wagon collided with an auto, and many bottles of milk were broken. A crowd gathered.

"Poor fellow," said a benevolent looking man. "You will have to pay for this accident, won't you?"

"Yes, sir," said the driver.

"That's too bad; here is a quarter toward it, and I'll pass the hat for you."

After the crowd had contributed and dispersed, the driver said to a bystander, "Ain't he the wise guy? That's my boss."

There is a lot of sound and fury about soaking the rich, but ha an - seen a million dollars going to jail?

TROOP GAINS NEW LAURELS

(Special to The News by)
WILLIAM J. POWELL,
Troop Clerk

CAMP CLEMENT, Anneville, Pa. July 2—What is proving to be the best encampment Troop F has ever had is now in full swing with each and every officer and man in the best of condition physically and mentally. A spirit of cooperation that has never before been attained to such a high point is making the Troop the recipient of each honor the Regiment can confer.

As an explanation to what this means, it must be understood that eleven other troops are competing for each compliment the Regimental Commander bestows, and it is freely admitted that all of them know what good soldiering is. The first day here an order was issued that the best appearing soldier was to be made the Colonel's orderly and the selection to be considered highly flattering to the soldier to be considered. So far we have not failed to gain this distinction; Privates Clare M. Mates and Theodore J. Blaseak seemingly to be the Robert Taylors of the area, for each of them has been selected.

Yesterday, a model tent was to be chosen from the regiment and when the smoke cleared away Troop F had another notch on their handle; cut there by Privates Robt. L. Moore, John A. Paal, Carl P. Barbour, Michael Lakatos, Norris D. Baxter and William M. Irvin. Evening parade invariably finds our troop with the best lines, which is a point particularly noticed by visitors and officials alike. The officer of the day stated last night that the Regimental guards from Troop F always excelled in guard duty.

All this is not told in a spirit of bragging, but merely to show why every one is in such excellent morale. Captain George F. Seyffert is surely showing how a troop can be run 100 per cent effeciently without arousing one iota of strife or antagonism. Emerson once said, "What a man is speaks so loud you can not hear what he says," that possibly being the reason why we all think he is the best officer in the camp, though no one has ever heard him say a word about it.

But that is enough orchids to give out in one trip, so we'll tell something about the routine of the camp. First of all, the men are busy from morning till night, and when they draw guard duty, the 'busy' continues half the night. On horseback about six hours a day, the remainder of the time is spent in grooming horses, cleaning equipment, policing, and such other duties the first sergeant may think necessary. It is a hard life, but any real men should enjoy it. Even the point that there are no women around to bother you has a definite appeal to some of the married men, despite the protestations to the contrary made to the wives before leaving New Castle.

Sunday is to be visitors day. A mounted review of the whole brigade is to be one attraction. The reviewing officer will be Governor Earle himself. Immediately following, there will be a sham battle, utilizing the 103rd and 104th regiments of mounted cavalry and all the airplanes new squad cars and armored cars attached to this brigade. It will all be in plain sight of the spectators, and will be a revelation to civilians who have never been privileged to watch a modern army in combat. Absolutely everybody is invited, and we would particularly like to have friends and relatives of the troopers come and see it. So with the thought that the weather is pleasantly cool and that we have no men on the sick list, we bid you goodbye until the next time.

Memorial Chapel At Jewish Cemetery Will Be Dedicated On July 4

Dedication of the Tifereth Israel Memorial Chapel at Tifereth Israel cemetery, West Leasure avenue extension, will take place Sunday afternoon, July 4, at 2 o'clock.

It is the desire of the committee that all those who have loved ones or friends at rest in the cemetery attend this dedication.

Rabbi Manello Guest

Rabbi Carl Manello of Temple Emanuel, Youngstown, O., will be guest speaker and it is likely that a large crowd of Tifereth Israel members, their families and friends and all New Castle Jewry will take this opportunity to hear him, and to pay tribute to the departed ones. Rabbi Pinchos Katz will also give a short address, followed by the chanting of El-Mole-Rachamim.

Officers of Memorial Chapel are: Meyer Levin, president; M. Waldman, vice president; M. Samuel, secretary; and L. Ruzewich, treasurer.

Forty years ago was organized the "Chevra-Kadisha," a body of men dedicated to uphold the precepts and traditions of Jewish memorial services. At that time they purchased a plot of ground for a cemetery site.

Beautiful Building

This dedication of the Memorial Chapel, a beautiful building of brick with tile walls and decorated with Jewish traditional ornaments, climaxes many years of service to the Jewish community by the Tifereth Israel congregation.

The men appointed to raise funds for the building of the chapel, which is now completed, are: L. Ruzewich, chairman; M. Levin, M. Waldman, M. Samuel, S. Edelstein, J. Alpern, A. Frank and N. Rosen.

The chapel association has extended a cordial invitation to all of New Castle Jewry to participate in the services at the cemetery Sunday.

Law Forbids Any Person Abandoning Cats Along Road

New Game Law Will Put Stop To Persons "Dumping" Cats Along Roadside

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 2.—From now on the housecat who has turned waif will no longer be forced to depend upon game or song birds for subsistence. There's a law against it.

W. C. Shaffer, director of the bureau of protection, State game commission, warned that the new game code provides a $25 fine and cost of prosecution for persons "caught dumping an unwanted cat along the roadside where it is forced to live on game and song birds or starve."

Library Posters Depict Danger Of July Fourth Toys

Posters In Library Show Seriousness Of Shooting Firecrackers

The local free public library has just received from the National Association for the Prevention of Blindness, two enlightening and horrifying posters showing the number and extent of accidents caused by fireworks.

One is a tabulation by states, in which New York leads, with the largest number of accidents. New Jersey comes second and Pennsylvania ranks third with the dreadful distinction of 629 accidents.

The chart shows that most of these accidents occur on the Fourth of July, though some happen before and some after. It shows the location and circumstances of the accident, treatment, part of body injured, how many were injured by the carelessness of another person, etc.

The second poster shows an assembling of newspaper headlines of accounts of accidents, such as: Torpedo may cost girl her sight; Four burned as ban on fireworks is ignored in city; Medical student loses three fingers in explosion; Cannon cracker explodes as boy looks into it; Were his fireworks worth his eye;? and many others as startling.

Both of these poster have been placed in the public library and have been attracting considerable attention.

BOILING SPRINGS

Do you know that Boiling Springs, in Cumberland County, derives its name from springs whose water seems to be boiling as it gushes from the ground?

Boiling Springs is located along Route 174. The springs that flow out of the ground and form a large lake are of extreme interest to visitors. It is estimated that 24 million gallons of water flows from these springs every 24 hours. Even during the coldest winter months the springs never freeze.

Auto Trailers Are Barred In Atlantic City

(International News Service)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 2.—There is a chilly reception in store for automobile trailers at this seashore resort.

An ordinance which practically forbids motor tourist camps, trailer camps and trailers has been adopted by the city commission in response to the cry of hotel operators against alleged unfair competition. The ordinance would require camps to have an investment and scale of prices comparable with hotels.

Crane Operator Escapes Injury

Leaps From Huge Machine As It Topples Over In Excavation

ACCIDENT OCCURS LATE THURSDAY

The operator of a huge 15-ton crane-shovel jumped for his life when the crane, sinking under its enormous weight as it was being driven down a temporary ash roadway into the cellar at the new G. C. Murphy Company building site downtown, toppled over into the basement Thursday afternoon.

While the powerful lift was left stranded, Irvin Gibson, of 1004 North Jefferson street, its operator, escaped without a scratch.

Today, after hours of tugging and straining, another 15-ton crane of like design had righted the upset crane, and an inspection disclosed that little damage had been done.

A magnet to curious passersby ever since the excavation work begun, the Murphy site saw even larger crowds yesterday and last night as the rescue crane and several trucks and workmen united to right the overturned apparatus.

Gibson, operating the shovel for John F. Powell, its owner, had been removing the last of the old St. Cloud building foundation. He was taking the shovel to a more advantageous point of operation when it rolled over.

OBVIOUSLY!

The Englishman was belittling Scotland. As he drained his second glass of whiskey he turned to his companion.

"Why," he said, "your country has never produced a really great man. You say Robert Burns? Pouf! If I had a mind to do it, I could write as good stuff as ever Burns did."

"Ay, you're right there," replied the patient Scot. "All that ye want is the mind."

City Lightning Danger Called Unjustified

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS—Fear of danger from lightning to the average city dweller, is largely unjustified, Roscoe Nunn, forecaster at the U. S. Weather Bureau here, said recently.

In modern buildings, containing a great deal of steel which would drain off any bolt into the ground, Nunn said, injuries from lightning are almost never recorded. "We have a great many thunderstorms," Nunn stated, "but only occasionally is there any damage. The number of persons killed by lightning may be fairly large over the country as a whole, but in any one locality such deaths are rarities."

There are 45 islands within the corporate limits of New York City.

Little N.R.A. For Auto Industry In Pennsylvania

Governor Signs Bill Creating Five Man Board To Operate In State

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 2—The Earle administration set up a "little NRA" for the state automobile industry today.

Gov. George H. Earle signed the McGinnis bill which created a five-man board to be known as the Motor Vehicle Dealers' Commission to be appointed by the governor with senate approval.

The board, consisting of one used car dealer, two new car dealers, one new car salesman and one person not connected with the industry, will regulate allowances made by dealers on used cars. The governor announced he would appoint the members shortly.

The board, which will be paid $25 a day per member when it is actively at work, will issue licenses to all motor vehicle dealers and salesmen and will appoint appraisers who shall determine the worth of used cars. The appraiser will be paid $1.50 for his work by the prospective buyer, and, if another automobile is bought, new or old, within seven days, the fee will be refunded by the dealer.

The law, sponsored by Sen. Bernard B. McGinnis, D, Allegheny, provides that in 30 days of the time the board is created the average sale or "trade-in" price of the different makes of used cars will be determined by a survey.

Following this, the board is to issue orders that for the next 30 days no appraiser can set allowances on used cars higher than this average. Price levels are to bet set every 30 days.

All automobiles more than 8 years old, the law provides, will have a maximum value of $50.

The turning back of speedometers is forbidden and new cars can not be sold for less than the manufacturers' list price.

Brothers Drown In Monongahela

Two Lads Go Down As Younger Seeks To Save His Brother

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 2.—A nine-year-old boy's efforts to save his 12-year-old brother from drowning in the Monongahela river ended today in a double tragedy when the older lad succumbed to the waves and dragged his would-be rescuer with him.

Desiring to take "one last dip" in the river before he went home to supper, Clarence Svntner, 12, of Braddock, unwittingly jumped into water deeper than he was accustomed to. His cries for help were answered by his brother, Edward, 9, but the panic-striken older lad seized Edward in a death grip. A third youngster, Louis Cresovich, 11, dived in also but barely broke away from Clarence's death struggles as they went down.

The youngsters, together with several companions, had been swimming in the river nearly all afternoon. The boys' mother, Mrs. Barbara Svntner, 40, collapsed after identifying their clothing.

WASHINGTON AT A GLANCE

Tax Probe Is Proving Tame

Is Not Providing Show That Was Advertised In Advance By Senators

AVOIDANCES ARE WITHIN THE LAW

Central Press
Washington Bureau
602 Times-Herald Bldg.
By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Congress' investigation of income tax "avoidance" is not proving to be as good a show as generally was anticipated.

It is too technical.

The average individual evidently does not understand the legal devices by which folk with supposedly very big incomes have been taxed upon relatively small ones, or not taxed at all in some cases. Lawyers for the alleged "avoiders" have been so slick as to have had the better even of treasury experts. Naturally, then, the whole thing makes scarcely any sense at all to the ordinary layman.

The alleged "avoiding" has been done in accordance with the law's requirements, anyway. Besides, it is not charged that the alleged "avoiders" (at least not many of them) are punishable. The government can't so much as make back collections from them. The avoiders only took every advantage that they were legally entitled to take.

THE PURPOSE

Perhaps the law ought to be so changed as to deprive them of the advantages they have availed themselves of—to make it an airtight-er law in future.

That, nominally, is the sole purpose of the investigation.

But everyone knows that its incidental purpose was to put a lot of "economic" royalists" on the pan, with a view to the public's enjoyment at seeing them squirm over a hot fire of cross-examination.

Far be it from me to get no fun out of watching an "economic royalist" wriggle, under such circumstances.

But it hasn't worked very well. It has been a poor entertainment.

NOT SAME "APPEAL"

The investigation undoubtedly had its origin, as a bright idea, in the revelation, before the Pecora banking and currency inquiry, two or three years ago, that there was a year for which J. P. Morgan paid no income tax.

Of course everyone felt that this was a rank injustice—though not an illegality.

The notion was that the disclosure of a long list of similar "avoiders" would be followed by a similar popular reaction, multiplied by the greater number of names on the scroll.

The thing has not so developed.

NOT ENOUGH "BIG NAMES"

In the first place, there are not enough outstanding names of "avoiders", like J. P. Morgan's.

Read into the roster is a category of one-horse, small-time multi-millionaires, for whom nobody cares a cent's-worth. It makes your blood boil to hear that there was a year when J. P. Morgan paid no income tax, but you won't worry as to whether or not John S. Smith or George M. Jones did.

True, if John Smith or George Jones, your next door neighbor, paid no tax the same year that you did, you may resent it. But Smith or Jones, in all probability, is a New Yorker, who has no neighbors to be resentful.

There's a certain personality about J. P. Morgan, but not about a petty plutocrat. He isn't worth a congressional committee's panning.

NO REAL INVESTIGATOR

The income tax committee hasn't got a good investigator, either.

Ferdinand Pecora, for the senate's banking and currency "probe", was an accidental wonder.

For that matter, that committee had fizzled along for a couple of years without hitting on anything sensational until Pecora, by a fluke, was hit on. It was Pecora's investigation; not the committee's.

Congressman Robert L. Doughton is chairman of the income tax investigators. He is a good old wheelhorse, but with no more sense of publicity than a rabbit. And he has had no backing. Senator Robert M. La Follette is one of his fellow members. "Young Bob" is a marvel, but he is too busy elsewhere.

"PEP" NEEDED

In short, a congressional investigating committee, to be successful, has got to have "pep."

This one hasn't got it.

It lacks "big names," as magazine folk express it. Oh, it has the names of some middling big ones—multimillionaires, but not super-multimillionaires.

They haven't done anything, either, for which to be put into jail.

That spoils it, for what we call a "newspaper story."

Submits Bond For Street Oiling Work

When council convened in the city building, Thursday, Joseph S. W. Smith submitted to council a bond for $1,000 pursuant to an ordinance which makes it compulsory for anyone taking contracts to oil streets to submit a bond for the faithful performance of the provisions of the ordinance. The bond was referred to the city's legal department for approval or disapproval.

LIQUID FUELS BILL SIGNED

Free Inducements To Customers Is Outlined By New State Law

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 2—Free "inducements" offered to customers to buy gasoline were outlawed Thursday.

Signed by Gov. George H. Earle, a measure enacted by the legislature tightening provisions governing the sale of liquid fuels became effective today although gasoline stations were given until July 10 to file application for $1 filling pump permits.

"The new legislation," said Secretary of Revenue J. Griffith Boardman, "prevents the dealer from giving anything for which payment is ordinarily required, to any purchaser or prospective purchaser of any liquid fuels."

Against Dealer

The penalty, however, is against the dealer.

"It also imposes heavy penalties on the sale of adulterated and inferior motor fuels and likewise prohibits such understandings that involve secret prices. It protects the motorist from being short-weighed in the purchase of his gasoline.

"Probably one of the strongest visions of the act provides that it shall be unlawful for any person to compound any liquid fuels of any manufacturer with the product of any other manufacturer or to adulterate them or to offer for sale such mixture under the trade name or distinguishing mark of other manufacturers."

National Referendum For War Declaration Drive Started Again

Rep. Louis Ludlow, Of Indiana Seeking House Action On Important Bill

Would Take Matter Of Declaring War Out Of Hands Of Congress

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 2—Increasing congressional alarm over new crises in the far east and Europe was reflected today in a house drive to force a vote on a proposed constitution amendment requiring a national referendum before the United States can declare war.

As the world powers watched the grave Soviet-Japanese situation with a nervous eye while casting concerned glances at European tension growing out of the Spanish civil war, support for a direct vote by the people of this nation before war can be declared gained fresh impetus.

Sponsors Petition

A tall, hulking ex-newspaper man, Rep. Louis Ludlow (D) of Indiana, announced that his fight to force house action on his proposed referendum amendment to the constitution was nearer fruition than at any time in the four consecutive sessions he has waged the battle.

Ludlow, sponsoring a petition to force the measure out of the house judiciary committee, said that 141 members had signed it when the house adjourned yesterday. House rules require 218 signatures, a majority. Ludlow pointed to the fact that on a similar petition last year only 79 members offered their signatures.

Declaring that recent developments in Europe and the Far East had caused him to redouble his efforts to gain house action, Ludlow said:

Tremendous Impetus

"The new Soviet-Japanese war scare coupled with the acute crisis in Europe growing out of the civil war in Spain are giving tremendous impetus to my war referendum resolution.

"The proposal is the only substantial peace vehicle now before congress. If adopted it will prevent our becoming embroiled in quarrels rising out of old quarrels and hatreds of foreign governments.

"The people of America want insurance against such a supreme clamity. The latest dispatches from the zones of disturbances are so disquieting that thousands of American citizens who heretofore have been indifferent are suddenly becoming war conscious.

Tide Of Support

"This sentiment among the people is being reflected in congress. With the swelling tide of support for the referendum proposal, I believe the required 218 signatures necessary to place the resolution before the house will be secured within a few weeks at the longest."

Ludlow's proposed constitutional amendment would prohibit congress declaring war unless a majority of votes in a national referendum authorized it. An exception would be made for congress to vote a declaration of war without benefit of referendum if the United States or any of its territories were invaded. The referendum would be initiated by congress.

Woman Suffers Fractured Skull, Falls From Auto

(International News Service)

FREEDOM, Pa., July 2—Mrs. Loretta Ayres, 19 of Conway, suffered a fractured skull early today when she leaped or fell from an automobile in which she and her husband were riding through here, according to police.

Joe Schriner 36, of Conway, the driver and her husband, Fred Ayres, 53, were detained for investigation.

Police said F. R. Jenkins, of Rochester, driving behind Schriner's car reported to them he saw the young woman fall into the street. He picked her up and took her to the Rochester hospital, according to the police report.

Shriner and Ayres were found by police about a half mile from the place where Mrs. Ayres fell. Police said he expressed surprise when asked where his wife was.

Part of the evidence the jury must consider is the evident fact that witnesses lied.

Revive Charge Against Shields

Liens Are Filed Against Johnstown Mayor And Others For $76,040

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 2.—Federal authorities here today revived a 12-year-old bootlegging case against Mayor Daniel J. Shields of Johnstown and 13 other persons against whom it filed liens totaling $76,040.

Shields has recently been at odds with Gov. George H. Earle over the declaration of martial law in Johnstown during the Bethlehem Steel strike and has made several telegraphic appeals to President Roosevelt for intervention against John L. Lewis's CIO.

Among the 13 others named were several prominent Johnstown citizens who either pleaded guilty or were convicted on bootlegging charges as the result of operation of a wildcat brewery in Johnstown in 1924. The $76,040 represents taxes the government contends is due on 12,600 barrels of beer and 400 gallons of illegally manufactured alcohol from June, 1924, to April, 1925, according to the tax liens filed at Ebensburg and Somerset, Pa., by William Driscoll, collector of internal revenue for western Pennsylvania.

Now they tell us that rage stirs up the liver, so it may be that Jay Franklin is doing solid citizens a real service.

Baldwin has gone back to raising pedigreed pigs. They say he enjoys kicking around the ones that don't mate to suit him.

If he has been in public view for years and people still wonder what his principles are, he hasn't any.

Yet if we saw ourselves as others see us, we still wouldn't see ourselves as we are.

FAVORITE SALAD

A favorite salad of Ann Sothern, picture star, is made of almonds, dates, dried figs and maraschino cherries ground together. The mixture is molded into the size of a peach pit and placed in the center of half a canned peach. It looks exactly like a real peach pit, and when topped with a little mayonnaise makes a salad both lovely to look at and good to eat.

Compromise On Court Bill Will Be Up After 4th

Long Debate On Court Proposals To Be Started Next Week

MEASURE TO COME BEFORE SENATE

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Two legislative controversies, involving farm tenancy and federal price-fixing, occupied the senate today as it prepared for a holiday recess before taking up the administration's compromise supreme court bill.

Abandoning President Roosevelt's court enlargement bill, administration leaders proposed a substitute, calling for appointment of one new justice each year for every justice remaining on the court after the age of 75 years. It would limit the court permanently to nine justices but allow appointment of additional members so long as the 75-year-old jurists continued to serve.

For Any Compromise.

Majority Leader Robinson prepared the actual draft of the compromise. He was reported to have given carte blanche authority by the president to secure the enactment of any compromise.

The senate opposition group held a secret conference at which battle plans were drawn. Senator Wheeler (D) of Montana, elected leader of the opposition, is expected to make the first speech against the plan. He will be followed by Democratic members of the senate judiciary committee, which filed an adverse report against the president's bill.

The senate today debated the Bankhead bill, which would start the government on a modest campaign for the eradication of farm tenancy. The bill creates the Farmers Home corporation to purchase farms and resell them to tenants at low interest rates. Bankhead would give it $10,000,000 the first year, $25,000,000 the second year and $50,000,000 a year thereafter. Senator Connally (D) of Texas proposed increasing the amount to $50,000,000 annually from the start. Earlier in the week the house passed a measure to authorize the government to extend loans to tenants to buy farms.

Lengthy debate over the bill led to charges it was being used to help filibuster the McCarran bill, limiting freight trains to 70 cars, the next bill on the calendar.

The federal price-fixing developed in the senate District of Columbia committee. There, Senator Tydings (D) of Maryland offered his price control bill as an amendment to the District of Columbia tax bill, which must be passed to overcome a $7,000,000 deficit in next year's revenues for the nation's capital.

The Tydings bill, pending in the senate since March, would give federal approval to trade agreements, fixing the resale prices of trademark and standard products, if such contracts are lawful under state fair trade law. Action on a similar measure was blocked in the house recently by President Roosevelt.

Requests Council To Give Exemption

Request of Ed. Stevenson that the costs and interests for the filing of a lien against a property he had to take over was referred by council Thursday to the city solicitor. The original of the lien was $145.50 but when reduced to judgment amounted to $191.32, to which interest and costs amounting to $54.96, was added. Council also asked the city solicitor for information concerning a recent act of legislature which, if certain requirements were obeyed, would result in costs and interest being exempted.

Atlantic Flight Skipper Chosen

Capt. H. E. Gray To Pilot Pan-American Test Ship On Survey

NEW YORK, July 2.—A 31-year-old native of Iowa, Captain Harold E. Gray, was named commander last night of the first survey flight of a Pan American clipper plane across the Atlantic ocean, to be started Saturday from Port Washington, Long Island.

Captain Gray, veteran of Pan American's Pacific service, and commander of survey flights which preceded opening of regular service between New York and Bermuda, will share the 22¾ ton Sikorsky flying boat with six other crewmen.

Pan American officials said the "Pan American Clipper" would leave its Port Washington base early Saturday for the Imperial Airways base at Botwood, Newfoundland, 1,072 miles from New York. The take-off from Ganders Lake at Botwood for the Atlantic flight to Foynes, the Irish trans-Atlantic base at the mouth of the River Shannon, has been set for 1:30 (E. S. T.) Monday.

Should Lump Taxes Of Husbands-Wives

Estimate Government Lost $193,000,000 By Not Lumping Tax Assessments

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 2. — The incomes of all husbands and wives should be lumped in assessing taxes, Uunder-Secretary of Treasury Magill told the congressional tax committee today.

If that could be made applicable to 1937 returns he estimated there would be an increase of $193,000,000 in treasury revenues from income taxes alone.

Magill made his recommendation in discussing the tax advantage held by residents in eight "community property states."

In these states — Texas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, California, Idiaho and Washington — income and property of husbands and wives are shared by law.

With each filing of separate income tax return, he explained, surtaxes are lowered. He estimated that taxpayers in the eight "community property states" save $34,000,000 a year.

Princeton Phone Company Makes New Rate Schedule

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 2.—The Public Utility Commission today studied a new tariff of the Princeton Telephone Company, furnishing service in Princeton and vicinity, Lawrence county, reducing the rate for multi-party line services for wall sets from $20 a pear to $12. The new tariff also eliminates a $3.50 service connection charge.

Ohio Congressman Talks In Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 2.—If the Republican party has hopes today of returning to power, it must accept the responsibility of forming a constructive party program, Congressman Thomas A. Jenkins, of Ohio, told 5,000 members of the Allegheny County G. O. P. clan at the opening of permanent party headquarters.

"If our prime object is to capture the offices we will not deserve to succeed," he said. "But if we conscientiously feel that our first duty is to assume the responsibility of doing for the people that which they deserve and if we prove our sincerity to the people they will again open the door of responsibility."

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

STRAWBERRY GROWERS KEEP PLANTING FOR NEXT YEAR

With the strawberry season drawing to a close, a number of growers in Lawrence county are thinking about carrying the planting over for another crop next year. In considering this, it is well to remember that the first crop taken from a planting is usually better than any succeeding crop, from the standpoint of both total yield and size of berry.

However, if the planting is to be carried over for a second crop, the quality of next year's berry may be greatly improved by thoroughly renovating the patch as soon as possible after this year's crop is harvested.

The advisability of keeping the planting for another year will depend upon the fertility of soil, stand of plants and freedom from weeds. If these factors are favorable, the probability of success is increased.

The first operation is to mow the tops rather high to avoid injury to the crowns and remove these leaves from the patch along with any remaining mulch. This material is sometimes burned off, but it is safer to remove it with a rake.

Fertilizer is next applied broadcast on top of the matted row. A good application would be 400 to 500 pounds per acre of a mixture of equal parts super-phosphate and either nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia. If ready-mixed complete fertilizer is used, it may be mixed with one of the above nitrogenous fertilizers if necessary to bring the nitrogen application up to the amount already suggested.

A spring-tooth or smoothing harrow is next used to loosen the soil in the row, dig up part of the plants and brush the fertilizer from the plants and mix it with the soil. One or two trips in the same direction over the row should be sufficient. The middles between the rows are then thoroughly cultivated and the rows are narrowed to 12 to 14 inches. Plants and weeds loosened in cultivation should be removed at this time. Dressing up with a hoe completes the job, after which the patch is handled like a first year planting for the remainder of the season.

If the ground is very dry it is best to delay the fertilizer application and digging in the row until rain comes. Cultivation between rows can be done even why dry.

LAYING HENS DEPRECIATE WHEN THEY ARE MOLTING

The number of laying hens that can be carried over for their second year production depends on the breed, condition of the flock and the supply of pullets to replace the hens.

Leghorns usually produce more eggs during their second production year than birds of heavy breeds. There is also a tendency for a larger percentage of leghorns to lay 10, 12 or 14 months during their first laying year than birds of the general purpose breeds. More hens of the heavy breeds have given their best production after six to eight months of laying. They should then be marketed for meat purposes.

Some of the first indications that hens are going out of production are combs starting to dry or shrivel, feathers starting to get loose and drop out by the roots, and the abdomens may start to shrink and get firm, and the yellow pigment may start to return to the face and at the base of the beak. A large amount of yellow color in the shanks usually indicates that the birds were not heavy or intense layers.

Hens that continue to brood after they have been broken from broodiness lose a good bit of laying time and are likely to go out of production soon. These birds should be marketed. Hens that molt slowly may gain in body weight after they stop laying. Slow molting is an inherited factor, or it may be caused by feeding. Flocks fed mostly on grain are more likely to molt slowly.

Hens that drop many feathers at one time usually loose body weight when they start to grow the new feathers. These thin birds full of pin feathers are low quality market birds. For this reason hens should be marketed soon after they stop laying or when they show the first signs of going out of production. The producer may sacrifice a few eggs, but he has a better market fowl for sale.

The term "cull" is often times used to denote hens that have stopped laying. On the meat market culls mean poor market birds and the term should not be used for hens that are in good flesh and market condition.

Other hens to be marketed are hens with physical defects that interfere with production and may eventually reduce their market value. Common defects are deformed beaks, pendulous crops and gray or pearl colored eyes.

A flock owner may sell off his hens according to the housing capacity that is available and the number of pullets that he has available to replace the older fowls. There is no definite dividing line that separates the profitable layers from the unprofitable ones, but the extremely poorer birds are not profitable to keep under any conditions.

PREPARE LAWNS NOW FOR FALL SEEDING

Nature did not intend grass seeds to be sown in the spring. Man has not observed Nature closely enough in this respect, but has built up a custom of spring seeding, usually with disappointing results. A great many lawns have been seeded this spring and are already choked with weeds of different kinds, among which crabgrass is not the least. Hot weather will not help the tender young grass plants but will assist the weeds.

Kentucky bluegrass and Chewings fescue, two of the most desirable and widely used turf grasses, are now in full head and will mature their seeds with the next few weeks. Where these plants are undisturbed, as along roadsides, in unplowed fields and fence corners, the seed will fall to the ground when ripe and lie until the fall rains and cool weather comes. They germinate in August and September and, during the cool moist days of fall, establish deep root systems to carry them through the winter. In the spring they will awake very early and begin to make more roots. Hot weather will find them well established and able to hold their own with the weeds and hot summer sun, a full six months ahead of their kind sowed in the spring by the hand of man.

For the new lawn, begin now to prepare the soil so that it will be in the best possible shape to receive grass seed this fall. Determine first the need of lime. A sample of soil may be brought to the Agricultural Extension Office, No. 206 Post Office Bldg., New Castle, where it will be tested to determine the amount of lime needed. This is very important. Summer fallow if possible, to destroy weeds and to prepare a firm, finely pulverized seed bed. During these operations is an excellent time to work in a generous supply of superphosphate which is need for good deep root systems. Apply at least 25 pounds to 1,000 square feet and work it in deeply along with the limestone. Work in some organic matter such as well-rotten manure, peat (either the native peat or peat moss), sewerage sludge, or like materials. The organic matter is essential to hold the moisture and to loosen the soil so that roots can penetrate deeply.

Where possible, better results will be obtained by liming, fertilizing, working in the manure, and then growing a cover crop of ryegrass, millet, millet and soybeans, Sudan grass, Sudan grass and soybeans, or some such quick-growing crop which will smother weeds and add valuable organic matter to the soil. These crops should be put in during June and, with good conditions, should be ready to plow under in the middle to the latter part of August in time for early September seeding.

Just before turning under the cover crop, apply 12 to 15 pounds per 1,000 square feet of a nitrogenous fertilizer to assist in its decomposition—rotting organic matter needs nitrogen—using sulphate of ammonia, nitrate of soda, or Cynamid. Prepare the seed bed with continued working until it is finely pulverized and firm.

CHOOSE THE RIGHT VASE FOR FLOWERS

To the flower lover, flower arrangement becomes a fascinating hobby. Miss Mary Vogle, home economics extension representative observes that if flowers are to show off to their best advantage in arrangement the container must be carefully selected for it is the foundation of the arrangement.

It is a definite part of it yet should be subordinate in color and size. The size, color, shape, and texture of the container is selected to suit the flowers or shrubs and the place in the room in which the flowers are to be used.

The container does not have to be expensive to be best in color and design. Some of the least expensive are more useful than the most costly. Brass, copper, pewter, silver, glass, and earthenware containers are the most common. Containers which are simple in line and dull in color are most useful for the amateur worker. Dull greens, and browns are safe selections, but blue, rose, white, and black are especially good to use with some flowers. The Japanese use dark dull colors to set off the color of the flowers. Decorated containers call attention from the flowers to the container and are best used as a decorative unit by themselves or not at all.

Other essentials are flower holders to place inside the container. They should always be inconspicuous or unseen in the final arrangement. Glass holders where the holes go through are useful, but there are a great variety of metal holders which make flower arrangement easier. The wire mesh or the flexible lead allow flowers to be held at different angles. Any number of satisfactory home substitutes can be used. Sand or small pebbles will hold flowers in place. Evergreen clippings packed closely, mesh wire cut to fit into the container or a potato cut to fit may be used.

PICNIC THIS SUMMER WITHOUT MUCH EFFORT

With the first warm days of summer there comes the urge to get out the picnic basket and saunter off to some lovely, quiet spot and enjoy a meal under the cloudless skies. Even though you live in the country, a meal prepared and eaten out-of-doors relieves that restlessness and longing for something different.

Picnics need not require the effort in preparation which was formerly associated with them, when mothed worked for two days over a hot stove making all sorts of delicacies. Now the entire family joins in with preparations, most of which can be done at the picnic site.

Yes, a picnic lunch is never so savory as when prepared over a hastily built fire says Miss Mary Vogle. Coffee can be cooked over the flame after which steak, frankfurthers, bacon and eggs can be cooked over the coals. A broiler or a wire rack is an advantage for cooking steaks but if a frying pan is used it should be of a durable quality but light in weight.

Bread may be sliced at home and buttered and sandwiches filled with the filling desired by each person. This saves endless time for mother.

Vegetables have their place even in the picnic basket. Small whole tomatoes and carrots and celery cut in strips provide the minerals and vitamins which we need. No picnic is complete without fruit and any which is in season may be used.

Crisp cookies give a pleasant ending to the meal and satisfy the craving for sweets.

If there are children in the party, Miss Vogle suggests a nourishing milk drink. This may be carried in a vaccum bottle to keep it cool.

Picnic Menus:

Cottage cheese sandwiches, on brown bread.
Vegetable salad
Fruit cup
Cookies
Coffee and milk

Broiled steak
Rolls
Olives
Jelly
Fruit salad
Saltines

Having everything ready so that you can run off on a moment's notice is a big incentive for taking numerous outings.

Dan Cupid showed an increase in business in June of this year, according to totals compiled by Prothonotary and Clerk of Courts John A. Edgar. During the month 171 licenses to wed were issued as compared to 123 in 1936, and 271 in June, 1935.

In June, 1935, Pennsylvania did not have a three-day license law and Ohio did. West Virginia did not. In 1936, Pennsylvania had such a law, but West Virginia did not, so a lot of the couples went to West Virginia. Now that state also has the three-day law and business is picking up here, thank you.

In the office of prothonotary and clerk of courts, Frank S. Inman, of Perry township, files a petition in divorce from his wife, Ida McLaughlin Inman. They were married June 17, 1935. Desertion is charged.

The WPA project which is card indexing the delinquent tax liens in the office of the county treasurer, is well under way now and considerable progress has been made.

Desertion and non-support court was held by Judge W. Walter Braham on Wednesday. A few cases were heard in which husbands had not paid to the support of the wife or else were called in to explain why they had not complied with a court order.

Recently there have been some cases where the wife came into court and asked for an increase in monthly stipend from her husband. In many cases the court has allowed an increase because of the increased cost of living.

Dairymen in Yorkshire, England, will have a six-day, forty-eight hour week with Saturday and Sunday off once in eight weeks.

Ask Why Delay In Presentation Of Tax Evasion

Committee Members Declare Facts Known Several Years By Treasury

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The treasury planned today to complete its evidence of legal devices used by some wealthy taxpayers to lower taxes before the joint congressional investigating committee.

As the first phase of the investigation, which may continue for months, neared a close, a marked tension developed between treasury officials and committee members. Members, both Democrats and Republicans, protested that the treasury had failed to present such evidence to congress two to four years ago.

With the evidence disclosing that many of the devices have been known for many years, committee members said that the fanfare of investigation together with publicity of the names of some taxpayers placed them in an unfavorable light.

"All of these devices were known long ago, and I don't understand why the information was not given to us when we revised the laws in 1934," said Rep. Crowther (R) of New York.

Undersecretary of the Treasury Roswell Magill, defending the treasury and bureau of internal revenue, said that increased use of many of the devices necessitated action to plug the loopholes in the tax laws.

Treasury and bureau of internal revenue officials, who have paraded names of wealthy persons before the committee, planned today to show how pension trusts are being established to aid executives of many corporations

Slight Decrease In Business In Pittsburgh Area

Report Is Made By Bureau Of Business Research Of Pitt University

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 2.—The volume of business in the Pittsburgh district showed a slight decrease from last week, the Bureau of Business Research, University of Pittsburgh, reported today.

Business rose slightly in the first half of June and declined moderately in the second half, the bureau stated. The level of business here was a little lower at the beginning of July than at the beginning of June.

In the week ended June 26, the bureau's adjusted index stood at 117.9 per cent of the 1923-1925 average. It was 118.4 per cent in the preceding week and 101.4 per cent in the week ended June 27 last year. This index has fluctuated between about 115 and approximately 120 per cent of the 1923-25 average since the end of March.

The operating rate of the steel industry declined from 92.5 per cent of capacity in the week ended June 19 to 91.5 per cent last week, a decrease of somewhat less than normal.

With the exception of one week when labor disputes here had closed some plants, the steel industry in the Pittsburgh district has operated at a rate ranging between 91 and 95 per cent of capacity for 15 weeks.

PILL SLAVE FREED FROM CONSTIPATION

A convincing tribute is paid to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in this letter from Mr. F. C. Aminsen of Seattle.

"I suffered with constipation for many years and was compelled to use pills every night. Since I got your ALL-BRAN, it works fine. I was so deathly sick of taking pills. Now it is so different. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works so naturally, and is pleasant to eat."

Inside the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, forming a soft mass that gently sponges out the intestines. It also supplies vitamin B to help tone the intestines, and iron for the blood.

You'll enjoy eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. As a cereal with milk or fruits, or in appetizing recipes. Two tablespoonfuls every day are usually enough — three times daily if needed. Sold by all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Drunken Driver Will Hold His Peace In Future

(International News Service)

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—When Salt Lake City policemen make arrests for drunken driving or any other offense for that matter, Ed Stoker will remain silent and have nothing to say about the matter.

Stoker was arrested recently for interfering with an officer who was arresting a drunken driver. At the time of the arrest, Stoker was alleged to have said, "You cops railroad everybody and got no business arresting anybody."

In police court, Stoker was sentenced to three days in jail by Judge Reva Beck Bosone. Later she changed her mind and offered to suspend the sentence if Stoker would attend police court three days to learn "whether justice prevails or not."

Stoker accepted the offer.

List Of Rules Made For Safe Water Sports

Detroit Red Cross Suggests Swimmers Abide By Certain Safety Rules

(International News Service)

DETROIT—Ten safety rules for swimmers were complied here by Alfred S. Moreau, first aid director of the Detroit Red Cross.

The rules are:

1.—Check your swimming ability during the season's first plunge; you may have forgotten more than you realize.

2.—Remember, distances appear shorter in water.

3.—Ask for information before going into strange water. Sunken objects, weeds and swift currents often trap experienced swimmers.

Caution In Diving

4.—Dive only when you are sure of the depth and condition of the water.

5.—Learn how to handle canoes, rowboats and other small craft, they are dangerous only in the hands of the inexperienced.

6.—Never swim alone.

7.—Do not swim during the heat of the day or when overheated.

8.—Never swim until two hours after eating, to avoid cramps.

9.—Don't call for help in fun. It may cost your life when you really are in need.

10.—Alcohol and water do not mix.

Pranksters Called Dangerous

Dare-devils and pranksters are the most dangerous persons on the beaches, according to Moreau. He added:

"The show-off who dives from the most perilous perch and the smart alec who cries false alarms for help are not only risking their own lives, but are endangering the lives of others. These and the inexperienced swimmer who ventures beyond his depth are the cause of nearly all preventable drownings."

Believed to be the first batch ever produced in captivity 250,000 octopi were hatched at Taronga Park, Sydney, Australia.

Boy Scouts Are Shown Sights Of Washington, Thrilled By Crowds

READY TO PRESENT BIG SHOW TONIGHT

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Thrilled over the big turnout at their first presentation of "The Cavalcade of Scouting," the 25,000 American and foreign Boy Scouts on national jamboree here spent today seeing the capital and rehearsing for tonight's arena presentation.

The sun was shining despite a chilly night and rain showed.

Founders Take Part

Today the only four living founders of the Boy Scouts of America took part in the scouts' 27th national council meeting on the jamboree grounds in back of the Washington monument.

Colin H. Livingstone, of Washington, D. C., the first head of the American scouts, served as their president for 15 years. Other charter members of the scout board of directors include Daniel Carter Beard, Suffern, N. Y., honorary vice president and national scout commissioner; John Sherman Hoyt, Darien, Conn., and William D. Murray, New York City. Walter W. Head, St. Louis, national council president, presided.

Texas Scout Hurt

Twenty thousand persons filled the stands around the arena last night at the courts' first presentation of their activities. Similar performances will be staged nightly until the jamboree ends eight days hence.

Charles Nash, 13, a scout of Austin, Texas, was in Naval hospital today, after being run down by an automobile while riding a bicycle. He is suffering a fractured knee and cuts on the face.

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 2.—The dismissal of W. T. Coverdale as maintenance superintendent in Erie county and the appointment of Thomas W. McGregor of York to succeed him, was announced today by Secretary of Highways Warren Van Dyke.

"This move is in line with plans of reorganization to promote greater efficiency in this district (district 1)," said Van Dyke.

McGregor, at present principal assistant to the superintendent of Berks county, will take over his new duties Tuesday.

"It is possible further changes may be found necessary after the new superintendent assumes direction of the Erie office," Van Dyke added.

Congressmen Make Verbal Attack On Secretary Perkins

Accused Of Being Ignorant Of Meaning Of Constitutional Democracy

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 2—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins was accused today of being ignorant of the meaning of constitutional democracy and of "raising the red flag of revolution above the labor department."

The statement was made by Rep. Cox (D) of Georgia, because of her assertion that no evidence has been shown that the committee for industrial organization is irresponsible, and her suggestion that the steel operators and union leaders be forced to settle their dispute through legal process.

Rep. Hoffman (R) of Michigan, whose resolution to authorize a house investigation of any agreements, if any exist, between Miss Perkins and John L. Lewis, CIO chief, was defeated early in the week, said:

"In placing the responsibility upon steel for failure to agree ignores the fact that there can be no compromise upon the proposition that man has the right to work.

"As long as the steel workers' organizing committee insists upon its procedure of driving men from their employment there can be no lasting settlement."

Cox's statement said:

"This is just another demonstration of the fact that the secretary has no understanding of the meaning of constitutional democracy.

"Those who have wanted to believe that she was the friend of government by law, now seeing her raise the red flag of revolution above the labor department, will hereafter know her as she is."

Girl's Head Cut In Auto Accident

Miss Mary Iannarelli, 15, West Pittsburg, sustained a severe laceration of her head last night in an auto accident along the West Pittsburg road. The car was driven by her brother Santo and the accident occurred close to the city line.

According to the Highway patrol Alec Zelinski, R. D. 7, backed his truck out of his driveway and the rear wheels were on the highway.

Iannarelli was driving his auto toward New Castle and Joseph Medvid, East Cherry street extension, was driving his auto into the opposite direction.

Iannarelli's auto hit the side of Zelinski's truck.

Police Prepare For Threatened March Of 40,000

Demonstration Is Scheduled To Take Place At Johnstown, Sunday

REPORT 12,000 MEN WORK IN PLANTS

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 2.—Police authorities today made plans to cope with the threatened march of 40,000 union men on this strike embattled city of less than 70,000 inhabitants.

While Patrick T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, U. M. W. A., insisted that an army of 40,000 would demonstrate Sunday to support the S. W. O. C.'s strike against the Bethlehem Steel corporation's Cambria works, police prepared for any emergency but were frankly skeptical as to the number.

Although plant officials declined comment, it was reported that as many as 12,000 of the 15,000 normally employed had gone back to work at the plant here.

The miners' rally was called, James Mark, S. W. O. C. strike leader, said to "show the nation whether the union can get 40,000 members into Johnstown." Plans for a similar march on June 20 precipitated the martial law proclamation by Gov. George H. Earle.

State Police Head Investigates

Admiral Percy Foote, new commander of the State Motor Service, was expected to make a personal inspection of the scene sometime today. He will take personal charge of police preparations for Sunday's demonstration.

City police prepared for a traffic jam but predicted that no more than 5,000 men would march.

Meanwhile, state police officers continued checking the sale of dynamite in this area in an effort to locate the perpetrators of the bombings of the plant's two main water lines, earlier in the week.

The 36-inch line from the Border dam has been repaired and it was announced that the flow from the huge Quemahoning reservoir to the Cambria plant would be restored completely within a few days.

Start On Journey To Philippines

GROVE CITY, July 2.—Major C. M. Lyons and family left Grove City today for the first leg of a journey that will take them to the Philippine Islands. Major Lyons was recently ordered back into regular army service after serving for the past five years as senior instructor of the 112th Infantry, Pennsylvania National Guard, with headquarters here.

Since regimental headquarters will be transferred to Kane, home of the new commanding officer, Col. M. A. Means, Major Lyons' successor will report to Kane instead of Grove City.

Major Lyons and family will spend July with friends in Ohio. On August 1st they will motor thru to California, and will take a boat from San Francisco on August 28th.

Airlines Planes Fly Near City Every Day, Creates Need For Port

In an endeavor to satisfy the wonderings and questions of many New Castle residents, who nightly see airplanes soaring over the city, William H. Ice, prominent local pilot, comes to the front with the following information.

According to Ice, New Castle is now located very close to a direct air-route of the United Air Lines, between Chicago and New York. Every day, transport ships pass over the northern part of the city, and sometimes as far north as New Wilmington.

Ice also stated that another ship which makes several trips over the downtown portion of the city nightly is also attracting considerable attention. This plane is one from the Butler airport and is hauling passengers between that city and Youngstown, according to Ice.

The information regarding the transport ship flying near New Castle was learned from attaches at the Cleveland airport, recently when Ice visited there. According to the Cleveland people these ships no longer stop at that city, having changed their route for a more direct way from the two largest cities of the United States. In making this change, United Airlines now comes very close to New Castle and sometimes is above the northern limits of the city.

Taking into consideration the above facts and also the fact that air traffic over New Castle is increasing, the need for the completion of the new local municipal airport is readily seen by airplane people.

A great deal of the private traffic through this district would possibly use the new port for a service and refueling field, while the air lines would use it as an emergency field.

Woman Acquitted In Escape Plot

Daughter Of Joseph Bruno Found Not Guilty By Jury Of Aiding Her Father

(International News Service)

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 2.—Mrs. Antoinette Billig was acquitted today of conspiracy charges in the "walk-away" escape of her father, Joseph J. Bruno, convicted killer of the 1934 Kelayres "election eve massacre."

A sealed verdict opened in Schuylkill county court this morning carried the verdict of not guilty. Mrs. Billig was charged with giving Bruno $1,000 the day before he made his sensational getaway.

End of Trials

The verdict and resultant action by the prosecution virtually ended the long series of trials growing out of the election eve shooting that claimed the lives of five Democratic marchers in nearby Kelayres almost three years ago.

Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti immediately ordered nolle prosse action in all cases involving perjury of witnesses or prison attaches involved in Bruno's escape from the Schuylkill county jail last December. District Attorney Roy Enterline at the same time nolle prossed remaining charges of conspiracy against Guy Irving, the guard from whom Bruno fled, and Mrs. Billig. The elder Bruno is still at large.

Caddies At Field Club On Strike

Golfers Carry Own Clubs—Conference Tonight To Seek Settlement

Golfers at the New Castle Field Club are lugging their own bags today. They did yesterday also. The caddies are on strike and scores are suffering accordingly.

Late Wednesday afternoon the caddies made a demand of a fifty per cent increase over the present rate of 75 cents per round. The demand was refused but a compromise offer of 85 cents per round was offered them for holiday play. This they refused.

On Thursday the ladies of the Sharon Club were here for an intercity tournament and found the driveway to the Field Club blocked with stones. Deputy Sheriff Elmer Taylor was called and the stones were removed.

The boys will meet with the chairman of the golf committee Johnrae Preston tonight in an effort to settle the dispute. With the week end and Fourth of July golf tournaments at hand the club membership wants to get the matter settled but feel that a rate of $1.15 is too much. The members claim that 75 cents per round is ten cents more than paid at any other golf course in the city.

Miss Mary Louise Davis was transferred to the latter, and to fill the vacancies respectively those elected were: Miss Amelia Sirianni, Miss Elvina K. Helbling, Miss Helen Crowley and Mrs. Marguerite Dambach Beachem. Miss Catherine Lauderbaugh was hte fifth teacher elected because of a change in education plan which will necessitate another teacher.

The plan of rearranging the board room by partition to give a private office to Secretary G. Blaine Hancher, was passed upon by the board last night. A number of repairs and improvements to school property were passed upon. This included repairs to the West End school, weather stripping work to the North Side, Hartman and Ewing Park. Evans was re-elected as medical inspector for the school district at a salary of $1,300 per year.

The board authorized a loan of $10,000 to meet the July payroll, which will be only negotiated only if absolutely necessary. Commission of the tax collector was set at one per cent for regular collection and five per cent for delinquent taxes, the same as last year. A transfer of funds was also approved at this time.

It was voted to finish the ticket booth on the athletic field at their own expense, provided the remainder of the WPA allotment for the project be spent here for labor. Improvement of grounds and building a sidewalk in Ewing Park was approved as a WPA project by the board which authorized Secretary Hancher to make application for this.

Most Simple Freedom Of Action Or Thought Unknown In Russia

(International News Service)
(Copyright 1937)

BERLIN, July 2.—"The Stalin regime is not crumbling," declared James H. R. Cromwell today in an exclusive interview with International News Service.

"Whatever opposition there might have been to Stalin's policies has been 'liquidated' and he now has absolute power in Russia.

"Progress, however, has been immeasurably retarded because bureau and factory heads are afraid to take any initiative or show any ability whatever."

"Did you gather during your inquiries that Russia is still corrupt and that there is disloyalty in high places?" he was asked.

Bureaucracy Inefficient.

"The Russian bureaucracy is less efficient but no more corrupt than other bureaucracies," Cromwell replied. "There is probably not much disloyalty in high places. The so-called subversive 'Trotsky elements' are merely an excuse for the removal of big men who Stalin thinks might oppose his policies and regime."

Cromwell said Russia was turning toward capitalism 'very gradually".

"While the rule that nobody can profit through the labor of others is strictly enforced, nevertheless, peasants are allowed to own small plots of land .There are some 20,000,000 rubles of bonds outstanding. The Russian banking and monetary system is conservatively managed according to strictly orthodox capitalistic practice.

"Piece-work and the 'stretch-out' system are practiced at the expense of labor and the new bureaucratic bourgeoisie live on a standard which is no more comparable to that of the working masses than is the case in capitalistic nations.

Bite Is Too Big.

"In endeavoring to regiment every phase of our complex modern industrial system, Stalin has bitten off more than he can chew.

"The theorizing of Marx is inapplicable to our modern economy. Stalin is beginning to realize this and knows that he has his hands full at home—increasingly so as the newly created industries begin to produce and to wear out with alarming rapidity.

"The efficiency of American workers is about five to ten times that of Russian workmen while industrial obsolescence in Russia is three to four times that in America."

(Cromwell is recognized as an outstanding economist in addition to being a banker, business man, sportsman and shrewd observer. His latest volume on economics "In Defense of Capitalism" has attracted wide attention.)

Cromwell then related what happened when he was arrested for using a camera outside the Kremlin.

"I was held by two policemen while they telephoned the GPU (the Russian secret police) from a police box," he said. "My intourist guide intervened and after about half an hour's wrangling I was taken to the hotel where I was finally released in about an hour and after my films had been removed. The films were developed and returned to me intact the next day.

"Although the incident was entirely ludicrous, it illustrates the fact that the most simple freedom of action or thought is positively unknown in Russia."

AROUND CITY HALL

It is doubtful if a more businesslike delegation than Joe Cross and his boy comrades has appeared before council. The youngsters marched into council chambers at city hall yesterday took their seats and at a given invitation to present whatever they cared to discuss before council, Cross arose, presented the voluminously signed petition, then spoke his piece. He described how the Park Avenue playground is operated, the number of persons who use it and told the number of persons on the ground when darkness descends. He also stated that promptly at 6 p. m. the youngsters give way to older persons who wish to use the tennis courts. The spokesmen asked that the city consider the erection of lights at the playground. It was the first time that such a request has been made to council.

Judging from what Councilman Joseph D. Alexander told colleagues during council meeting yesterday there will be a big time at Cascade Park, September 6-11, inclusive, when the Trades and Labor assembly stage their Labor exposition. In the past labor has celebrated on one day but this year they plan to not only celebrate but to show what progress labor has made during the last half century. After Alexander presented the request of the body to use the park, he added that there would be delegations from many cities in Western Pennsylvania and Ohio in attendance. Council granted the use of the park with the stipulation that the present concessionaires had contracts that held good the full year. This means that they will also be allowed to operate if they so desire.

Humane Trap Has Jaws Of Rubber

(International News Service)

AKRON, O.—Sheathing steel trap jaws in rubber—the latest device used by fur trappers for overcoming the tendency of trapped animals to escape by twisting or chewing off their legs—reduces the number of animals injured in this way to only two out of every 100 caught, it is shown here in the results of exhaustive tests.

According to Chester F. Conner, of The B. F. Goodrich Company, whose engineers developed the rubber for sheathing the trap jaws, careful studies show that when trap jaws are not encased in rubber, an average of 15 out of every 100 animals caught escape by severing their legs.

Recent Sale Of Tax Anticipation Notes Swells Balance At Start Of Month

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 2—The treasury department disclosed today it started the second month of the 1937-39 biennium with $64,494,837 in the general fund, swollen by the recent sale of a $60,000,000 tax anticipation note issue.

NASKEAG, Me., July 2.—Morrill G. Goddard, editor of the American Weekly, and one of the famed group of newspapermen who made New York journalistic history at the turn of the century, died suddenly Thursday at his summer estate at Naskeag Point. He was 70.

Goddard was in good health and fine spirits until a short time before his death. It was his first visit to Naskeag Point in 12 years, although he built the stone mansion here 40 years ago.

Goddards' death followed within a year that of his colleague, Arthur Brisbane, with whom he became associated on the old New York World. Goddard was instrumental in having Brisbane join the brilliant group of men who joined William Randolph Hearst in the 90's to skyrocket the New York Journal and American to leadership among American newspapers.

South Chicago Riot Probe To Be Ended Today

Will Show Suppressed News-Reel Of Actual Battle That Took Place

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The senate civil liberties committee expected to conclude its investigation of the Memorial Day strike riot at the South Chicago plant of the Republic Steel Corporation today with the showing of a suppressed news reel of the battle in which about a dozen persons were killed.

Chairman LaFollette said the film will be exhibited publicly at the conclusion of the testimony of six CIO strikers, some of whom were injured in the riot.

Chicago police officials and other witnesses testified the police fired into the crowd of 2,500 marchers in self defense. Committee attaches who viewed the film at a private showing claimed it shows the police as the "aggressors, and shooting at the backs of the fleeing strikers."

Amish Residents Lose Court Fight

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, July 2—In a surprise action by Circuit Judge J. Whitaker Thompson, the Amish residents of East Lampeter township, Lancaster county, today lost their struggle to prevent the construction of a modern $125,000 consolidated grade school building to supplant the present 11 one-room "little red school houses."

Boy Graduates At Woman's College

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Mass.—Four hundred and four women seniors stood in line for their diplomas at this year's commencement at Simmons College, the largest in history—but there was one male among them.

Unbashed, John Humphrey Scammon, of Dorchester, was the lone male candidate for a sheepskin, but he only received a certificate and no degree. He was the only male student at the women's school and took a special course to prepare him for Andover Newton Theological School.

While he was attending classes no one paid any particular attention to him. He was regarded by the many women students as a professor. Scammons was graduated from Bates in 1927.

However, this was not the first male student that Simmons has seen. Several years ago there was a mixup in foreign exchange students with Stockholm, Sweden, college. Simmons sent a girl to Sweden and in return received a male student.

TOUGH LUCK!

"Waiter. I was here yesterday and had a steak."

"Yes, sir; will you have the same today?"

"Well, I might as well, if no one else is using it!"

TODAY!

Before you start on that trip you should put on a set of Goodyears. Terms to suit you.

Business Men Take More Trips

Rapid Advances In Methods Of Travel Make Long Trips Easier To Make

KINGDON GOULD FAMILY HAPPY ONE

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 2.—Thoughts while strolling: Why do they always put the telephone book in the darkest corner of the drug store? Crying American need: A little consideration for the thrifty. George Jean Nathan has gone collegiate with hat brim up in front and down back, rah, rah!

O. O. McIntyre

Complete characterizer: The lug who performs with a toothpick behind his napkin in a cafe. How many remember Harold Ross's pompadour, Ralph Barton's finger ring circling his four-in-hand, and "Stuffy" Davis's sweater at first nights? Overworked word: Allergic.

Literary look alikes: John Steinbeck and E. E. Cummings. My entrants for the Sartorial Gloss Sweepstakes would be Cecil DeMille, Conde Nast and Isaac F. Marcossen. Mike Hogg has a chauffeur who talks exactly like Eddie Green. Eyeful: Youngish brunette with a feather of white through her hair.

For bobbing along with a smirk, no one can top Elsa Maxwell. Rhyme: The Brothers Ritz never throw me into fits. What happens to fortunates such as Dwight Fiske when they get too old to sing their ribald chansons? Kingdon Gould and F. P. A. could pass for twins in a light fog.

Who remembers when sinus was just old fashioned catarrh. A hope for 70: To sit down at a typewriter and bang out as readable stuff as George Ade can turn out. Something majestic about a New York sundown with that sheet of blood red falling curtainlike at the foot of each street.

Albert Lasker, advertising tycoon, is among the increasing number of highpowered executives who are slamming down their desk tops and going up the gangplank for a trip around the world. Business men used to think they were lucky if they could get away long enough for a quickie to Europe, and a circle of the globe was something of a Jules Verne fantasy. But with the airplane the speedup and comfort of the long haul a world tour has become just another casual junket. Dick Berlin, of the magazines, for instance, has do-si-doed the world twice in three years.

James Cromwell, the literary society boy and husband of the heiress Doris Duke, is taking his authority seriously. He works at the trade of writing as prodigiously as any steady-going scribbler. For a year now he has been working on a volume with an economic theme. Although born with the proverbial golden spoon, he boldly chose his title, "In Defense of Capitalism." An old established publishing house got out the tome, which would indicate a high standard of literary quality.

Another interesting wealthy family is that of Kingdon Gould, son of the late George and Edith Gould. Gould married the teacher of languages of their family, a charming Italian lady from Sienna, and they have three children, Silvia, Edith and Kingdon, Jr. They live in a triplex apartment in the East 70's and those who know say it is one of the most supremely happy families to be found anywhere. Each of their lives centers about the home. The top floor is equipped with squash courts and various games in which all indulge daily. Silvia, darkly beautiful, speaks Italian and French the same as English. She also plays the harp and piano and a masterly game of bridge. Edith, a sub-deb, also plays the harp and piano and writes poetry. A volume of her poems was printed when she was 14. Kingdon, Jr., at 13, makes his own movies, runs the projector and plays bridge with his father's friends. The mother is adept at painting and several of her canvases have been exhibited. They often go picnicing together for the day in the Jersey woods.

They jailed Dapper Don Collins again the other day—his 37th arrest. This time in a counterfeit trading deal. Dapper Don is one of the crooks that makes the suave creations of fiction writers seem plausible. He is a true life underworld swell, dressing a bit flashy but in good taste, and ordering expertly in better restaurant, choosing vintage wine with the selective talent of a gourmet. He has a gracious charm that instantly wins confidence among strangers—which is, of course, his big idea. Despite his many arrests, he always manages to wiggle out, remain in quiet seclusion awhile and then appear in his old haunts with all the insouciance of some accomplished worldling just back from a globe trot. On the theory, one supposes, that the world often loves a rascal, Dapper Don seems welcomed by those who know him. Nickey Arnstein had the same sort of unexplainable charm, getting the choice tables in cafes and night clubs.

They had probably been showing him herringbone suits.

And I wangled a hefty chuckle out of Gene Crawley's trip to the Empire State tower with a goggle-eyed country boy from Oklahoma. As the elevator shot up, the Oklahoman glanced down with bewilderment, then indulged a wide sheepish grin. "I thought my pants dropped off," he explained.

Irwin Is Strange Tombs Prisoner

Pleads For Glimpse Of His Dark-Haired "Dream Girl", Ethel Kudner

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 2.—In the melancholy shadows of the ancient red-walled tombs, Robert Irwin pleaded and wept today. For a glimpse of his dark-haired "dream girl," Ethel Gedeon Kudner.

Once he intended to "borrow" her life as he did three others—and he blamed her beauty for arousing the ruthless fangs of his murder lust.

But today his strange Jekyll-Hyde nature made him cry out:

"I love her and hate her. But I want to see her."

All about him in the "flats," where abnormal prisoners usually are kept, there was silence. The men in neighboring cells bitterly resented his presence and would not talk to him.

All night he had kept them up, nervous and on edge, with his piercing shouts for . . .

"Ethel . . . . Ethel."

His main amusement—if it could be called that—was digging through piles of newspapers and ripping out pictures of Mrs. Kudner. He studied them, put them aside in a pile and sought for more.

He also tore out pictures of movie stars.

All the while he smoked cigarettes chain fashion and wondered where he would be able to get more when the few cents he still retains were spent. No one gave him any cigarettes.

FARMERS HIT WPA

(International News Service)

CORRY, Pa.—If the price of food goes up—blame it on improved industrial conditions and the WPA, farmers in this vicinity bluntly warn the buying public.

Improved industrial conditions and the absorbing of free "hired hands" by the WPA makes it difficult to obtain help, the farmers said, unless they pay unusually high wages. And with higher wages, up go the prices, the farmers declared.

Reapportionment Bills Signed

Lop-sided Legislative Districts Are Straightened Out By Signing Of Bill

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 2.—The Earle administration Thursday straightened out lop-sided legislative districts.

Gov. George H. Earle has signed the senate and house reapportionment bills, redistributing legislative districts in accordance with the 1930 census.

The house membership was increased from 208 to 209, with Allegheny, Delaware, Luzerne and Lehigh counties gaining a representative and Philadelphia, Dauphin and Cumberland counties losing one each.

The senate membership, in accordance with the 1874 constitution, remains the same, at 50 seats, with these changes:

Fulton county was added to the Franklin-Adams district.

Bucks county was given an additional senator.

Allegheny county was given an additional senator.

Lancaster county was made one senatorial district.

Lebanon and Dauphin counties were merged into one district.

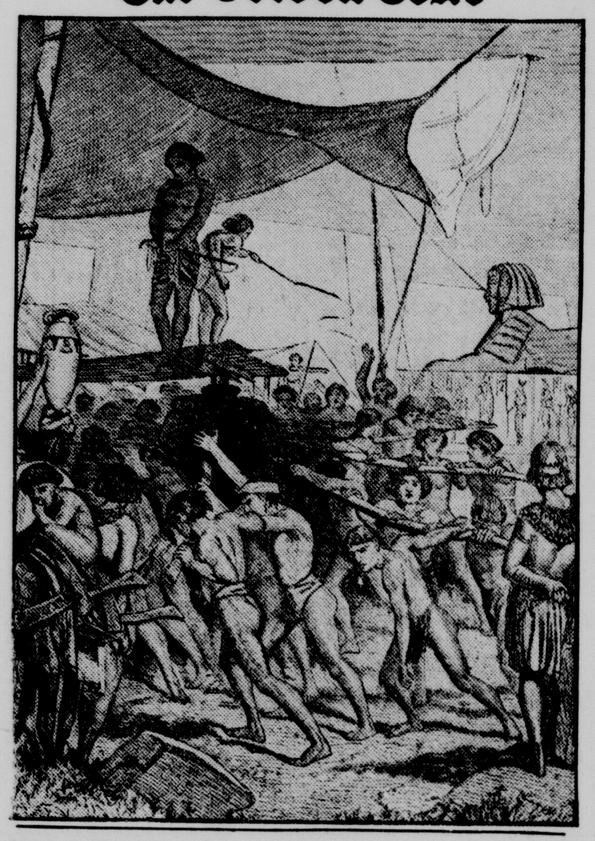
God Hears A People's Cry

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text



Isaiah 65:24—"Before they call, I will answer, and while they are yet speaking, I will hear."

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 4, the first in a three months' course on "God in the Making of a Nation", is Exodus 1:1-22; 2:23-25, the Golden Text being Isaiah 65:24, "Before they call, I will answer, and while they are yet speaking, I will hear." Since this quarter's studies are chiefly in the Book of Exodus we quote here the chapter covering this book in the author's Bible Studies, "The Gist of the Bible Book by Book," published by Dr. Alvin E. Bell, Toledo, O.)

THE MESSAGE of Exodus is evident in its name. It relates the "Going Out" of a nation of slaves from the land of Egypt, where they and their ancestors had been in bondage for more than four centuries. As Genesis ended with the picture of Joseph's coffin in Egypt, Exodus relates the national history incident to carrying that coffin back to the land of Joseph's fathers. Exodus differs from Genesis in that its message concerns a nation rather than outstanding individuals.

The Message Of Exodus

Its message may be summed up in three great words from our own national history, viz., "Slavery, Emancipation, Reconstruction"; or, speaking in terms of geography, the three words are "Egypt, Red Sea, Sinai", and these suggest three other terms, "The Ten Plagues, the Passover, the Ten Commandments."

Moses The Hero Of Exodus

The great character of Exodus is Moses. The book relates the history of Israel during the 40 years of his preparation in the palace of Pharaoh and the 40 years of further preparation as a shepherd in the very wilderness in which his 40 years of active national service were to be spent in reconstructing a horde of slaves into a conquering nation.

A Theocratic Nation

This nation's ruler was to be Jehovah; its constitution was the Law given on Mt. Sinai; its central national shrine was the Tabernacle; its bond of unity was the spiritual worship of the one true God, and its national hope was the "Prophet like unto Moses", whose blood would be shed for the spiritual emancipation of the nation, as was that of the passover lamb, and whose bones like that lamb's, should not be broken. Who would come down from heaven to be the world's "Bread of Life" as the manna was the heaven-sent sustenance of Israel during its 40 years of wandering in the wilderness.

Christ is the true Law Giver and Mediator of Whom Moses was but a type. The emancipation recorded in Exodus is but a parable of His emancipation of us all by the blood of his cross.

Gunman Poses As Gettysburg Guide, Robs Three Women

Takes $150 And Auto, Three School Teachers Were Enroute To Atlantic City

(International News Service)

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 2.—State highway patrolmen recovered the stolen sedan of three Pittsburgh district school teachers Thursday but were still searching for the youthful gunman who, posing as a battlefield guide, robbed them of $150 in cash and travelers' checks.

Undamaged, the car was found about two miles from the isolated spot where the teachers, Miss Elsie Kummer and Miss Jeanne Vandervort, both of West View, and Miss Cora Anderson, of Kersey, Elk county, were left stranded by their dark-haired "guide."

The gunman, masquerading as a Gettysburg battlefield guide, offered to show them the historic spots of interest. Instead, he directed them to a spot about eight miles south of here, forced them at gunpoint from the sedan and fled with their belongings.

The women had been enroute to Atlantic City. Police said it looked today as if they would return home.

SUBMIT CONTRACT

Marshall by which the city can quarry stone for the city's use from the Ray street quarry at a rate of five cents per ton. Council ordered the contract filed. If the city needs any more stone from the quarry the contract will become effective.

Spanish Neutrality Issue Showdown Is Temporarily Averted

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 2—Temporary averting a showdown on the Spanish neutrality issue which had threatened the peace of Europe, Italy and Germany today submitted a new proposal for non-intervention in Spain's civil war.

In a joint statement to the non-intervention chairmen's subcommittee, the German and Italian representatives reiterated they were unable to consent to the British proposal whereby British and French ships would assume the neutrality patrol zones around Spain abandoned by Germany and Italy following the Leipzig incident.

Instead of Italo-German combination produced an alternative scheme calling for recognition of both loyalists and insurgents in Spain as belligerents—with rights to establish naval blockades in accordance with international law—and renewed pledges by non-intervention committee members to adhere to a policy of non-intervention and remain neutral in the Spanish conflict.

To Meet British Opposition

The proposal to grant belligerent rights to both loyalists and rebels—formerly favored by Britain as a last resort, now was expected to meet stiff British opposition.

Revising its stand, the British government took the view such rights, under present conditions, would favor the insurgents by enabling them to cut off the loyalists' access to supplies via the seas while the Spanish government's frontiers remained blocked.

The Italian-German statement, which was circulated by the Italian embassy here while the non-intervention chairmen's subcommittee was still in session, claimed the new plan has several advantages. There were listed as follows:

Claim Advantages

1.—The Spanish combatants will have to assume toward neutral states full responsibility for their conduct of warfare, by land, sea and air.

2.—The naval neutrality patrol around Spain, in which Germany and Italy have not been participating, will be rendered unneccessary.

3.—Serious loopholes in the present neutrality system will be eliminated since ships of other powers would be submitted to effective control by the combatants themselves.

The Italo-German plan further proposed that the present neutrality supervision system along the Spanish land frontiers, at foreign ports and by observers aboard ships of countries adhering to the non-intervention scheme should be continued with the exception of the naval patrol system.

"Any further suggestions along these lines" were invited by the Italo-German proposal.

Policy Strengthened

At the same time the Italians and Germans claimed their proposal would have the 'immediate effect of strengthening the policy of non-intervention." They claimed the present patrol system has 'utterly failed."

The proposal was submitted just as Britain backed to the limit by France, was set to call for a showdown over Spain at the subcommittee meeting, which began at 11 a. m.

Peace of all Europe was regarded as ultimately hanging on the outcome of the session. It was feared that if the Italians and Germans "call the Franco-British bluff"—as some quarters express it—the entire European scheme for non-intervention in the Spanish civil war will collapse.

This, in turn, may open the flood gates of France, Italy and Germany, permitting countless volunteers from these countries to rush to Spain and enter the fray on opposing sides. Such a development would intensify the international clash of the forces of fascism and communism in Spain and vastly increase danger of the conflict spreading beyond Spain's frontiers.

Authorities here frankly expressed fears that if France permits large forces of volunteers to cross her frontier to fight for the Spanish loyalists, it is likely Italy and Germany might resort to direct intervention on behalf of the rebels.

Plan Is Torpedoed.

London, July 2—Diametrically opposed theories of world powers on the best manner of preserving neutrality in Spain today virtually torpedoed a new Italo-German proposal at its inception.

Great Britain, France and Soviet Russia voiced prompt and unmistakable disapproval of the latest Fascist thesis, embracing recognition of the adversaries in Spain as belligerents, abolition of the present naval patrol and renewed pledges of neutrality by all powers represented on the non-intervention committee.

With Britain already opposed to granting belligerent rights at the present time, a step which would permit creation of naval blockades to the disadvantages of the loyalist government, British and French members of the committee told Italy and Germany the principle of naval control must remain an integral part of non-intervention.

Soviet Russia was far more outspoken in its opposition, its delegate, Ivan Maisky, stating:

"The Italo-German plan is definitely unacceptable to the Soviets."

Immediate efforts were launched to effect a compromise, the committee adjourning until 4:30 p. m. to permit private conversations.

CANNING SEASON IN STATE OPENS

HARRISBURG.—Early reports to J. Hansell French, Secretary of Agriculture, from the centers of Pennsylvania's rapidly growing vegetable and fruit canning industry indicate that this will be the State's most successful season for the production of high quality fruits and vegetables for canning.

Tons of peas of exceptional quality have already been harvested on some of the State's most fertile farm lands and have been scientifically processed by canners in Adams, York, Lancaster, Erie and Columbia Counties. The pea canning season will continue until late July and promises to establish new high records for quality and volume.

Other canning crops which are making Pennsylvania famous are tomatoes, corn, beans, limas, apples and sour cherries. All are reported in favorable condition.

LIMA, Peru—Seven earth shocks in less than a week have decided the population of Cajabama, a small village, to sift en bloc to "healthier" quarters. The exodus started recently when 200 of the villages 3000 inhabitants set out in carts to new quarters fifty miles away.

Double-duty dresses are growing more and more important in fashion circles. They are very good for resort and spring wear. They really are two-piece frocks, but when the jumper is taken off, there is a complete dress underneath. The dress, however, is of very simple type, hardly more, in fact, than a sleeveless tennis frock.

WIFE SAYS THREE MARRIAGES TO ONE MAN IS ENOUGH

(International News Service)

WORCESTER, Mass. — Thrice married and thrice divorced from the same man was the record of Mrs. Mae B. Hall when she won a separation from Frederick R. Hall.

Before granting the decree, Judge Frederick H. Chamberlain asked, "If I grant you this divorce, are you going to marry him again?"

"On my honor, no," retorted Mrs. Hall.

Mrs. Hall charged desertion and said her husband openly told her he had married her the last time for "spite."

The couple received their first divorce in 1929, were remarried in 1931, only to be divorced again soon. Two years later they were married in New York City and came here to live.

Donald Budge Wins Title At Wimbledon, Eng.

Defeats Baron Gottfried Von Cramm Of Germany For First Wimbledon Title

(International News Service)

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 2.—Completely dominating his German opponent with a barrage of screaming drives and cross-court twisters, Donald Budge of Oakland, Calif., today beat Baron Gottried Von Cramm of Germany, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2 and won his first Wimbledon tennis championship.

Before Queen Mary and a crowd of whom paid as high as $30 a seat, the red-haired American ace was master of the situation at every stage of the far-from-close straight-set battle, and at times Budge even indulged in the luxury of carelessness.

To the bedezzled German No. 1 man he served up an amazing array of cross-court back-handers, drop-shots, and line drives which forced Von Cramm to stand far back on the baseline or race about breathlessly in futile attempts to snag whistling volleys.

Repeatedly Budge forced Von Cramm into errors and broke through his service, robbing the German of his second chance at the Wimbledon title.

Caddies Strike At Field Club

Unless the caddy strike at the New Castle Field Club is settled the members both ladies and men face the coming Fourth of July holiday season with misgiving.

It's no fun to tote a bag of clubs around a hot golf course and still enjoy your golf game, but that is what will take place unless the striking caddies get what they are demanding, higher wages and better working conditions, it is said.

Cubs-Pirates Start Series

Chicago Cubs Sweep Entire Series With Cardinals, Giants Top Phillies

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 2.—Bouncing back from the havoc wreaked by the Brooklyn Dodgers over last week-end, the Chicago Cubs today hold a clean sweep of an entire series over what a few days ago was a second place St. Louis Cardinal team.

That march leaves the Cubs still travelling a half game ahead of the Giants, who also are winning consistently, and drops the Cards down into a tie for third place with the Pittsburgh Pirates, who idled yesterday.

Cubs Oppose Pirates

The Cubs wound up their Cardinal series with their 6 to 3 victory yesterday and now take on the Pirates, while the Giants are slated for a series with Boston.

The Giants won a hair-raiser yesterday to maintain the pace, beating the Phillies, 8 to 6. Ott's homer in the eighth tied the score, then the Phils regained the lead with a run in the first half of the ninth, whereupon they sent Dick Merriwell into the game in the person of Wally Berger. Two were out and two were on, when he hit the ball over the left field stands.

After going through 36 scoreless innings, the Dodgers finally broke through against the Bees to score a single run—one run in four games is the count—and lost by 4 to 1, and maybe the Giants won't have it so easy with the Bees after all.

Yankees Win

The Yankees won their game from the Philadelphia Athletics, 12 to 7, but not without losing the services of Red Ruffing, who was knocked out of the box.

The Chicago White Sox kept pace with a 15 to 8 win over the Detroit Tigers and the Washington Senators beat the Boston Red Sox, 3 to 2.

Board Of Trade Upsets Firemen

Score Is 2 To 0 In City League Game At Rosena Field

The South Side Board of Trade team defeated the Sixth Ward Firemen last night at Rosena field 2 to 0 with Gunnett outpitching "Peck" Huston. The Firemen could not get a run over the plate on the two hits allotted them by Gunnett.

Two runs by the Traders in the sixth inning gave them the victory. Gunnett led off with a clean single, Fruitt bunted and was safe when Huston threw wild to first base. Koszela singled to right, Gunnett taking third. Chabak singled to score Gunnett and fill the bases again, then Marshall was hit by a pitched ball and a run was forced in.

The game was a real pitching battle all the way. The Traders only had three hits off of Huston, who fanned six men, and the Firemen had but two hits off of Gunnett, who whiffed 10 batters.

Four Left In College Golf Tourney Today

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 2—Louisiana State University, with two representatives in the closing sessions, was favored today as the National Intercollegiate Golf championship tournament narrowed down to the semi-final rounds at the Oakmont country club.

Today's set-up brought the boys from the deep south, Paul Leslie, and Freddie Haas, Jr., into competition with Vincent D'Antonio of Tulane and William Barclay of Michigan. Leslie, 1936 runnerup, teed off with Barclay, the curly-haired chap who eliminated Willie Turnesa, of Holy Cross, medalist; and Haas, semi-finalist last year and current southern amateur titleholder, met D'Antonio, the southeastern titlist.

Leslie eliminated Jack Hobart of Illinois, 9 and 8, to swing into the near-finals while Haas tripped Harvey Johnson, of Georgetown, 7 and 5. Barclay made the train by spilling Jimmy Marks, of Kiski and Princeton, 2 and 1, and D'Antonio advanced at the expense of Stanley Holditch, of Georgia Tech, 4 and 3.

Hero And Goat

(International News Service)

The Hero—Wally Berger, whose home run with two on in the ninth, gave New York Giants 8 to 6 victory over Philadelphia Phillies.

The Goat—Waite Hoyt, of the Dodgers, who allowed three runs in eighth as Boston Bees won 4 to 1.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Penultimate round of the National Inter-Collegiate Golf championship tournament at the Oakmont Country club, Pittsburgh, will be played today with Paul Leslie and Freddie Haas, Jr., both from Louisiana State U. Vincent D'Antoni of Tulane, and William Barclay of Michigan, the combatants. The semi-final set-up will find Leslie, the 1936 runner-up and holder of the western amateur title, against Barclay, and Haas, a semi-finalist a year ago and the present southern amateur title-holder, opposed to D'Antonio, who is the southeastern crown bearer.

The board of governors of West Virginia U has named Marshall Glenn as head football coach, succeeding Charles C. Tallman. Glenn, an alumnus of the university, will also coach basketball. Tallman resigned last week to become the head of the West Virginia state police.

William Woodward's American-owned Flares yesterday at Newmarket, Suffolk, won the Princess of Wales stake over 1½ miles, beating Sir Abe Bailey's Valerian by a short head. The Duke of Marlborough's Monument, three lengths back, was third in the field of six.

Apparently Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century club, New York, has scored over Max Schmeling, a report from London this morning being to the effect that Jacobs had matched Tommy Farr of England, to fight Joe Louis in the United States in August or September, which the report added, resulted in cancellation of negotiations for a Farr-Schmeling match in London on September 1.

The pace-setting Rads with a string of victories from here to there, buck up against a victory hungry Johnson Bronze club at Radiator field. The Bronze lads will have to contend with Lee Gairdo or Jackie Llewellyn. The Weavers will send J. Weaver against the West Pitt aggregation.

Schmeling Will Meet Joe Louis

"If Terms Are Satisfactory I'll Meet Joe Louis For Title", Says German

International News Service Staff

BERLIN, July 2—Max Schmeling, former world's heavyweight champion, Thursday announced his readiness to fight "Joe Louis or anyone else if the terms are satisfactory."

Schmeling confirmed receipt of a cable from his manager, Joe Jacobs, stating the New York State Athletic Commission had named him number 1 challenger. He insisted, however, he would meet Tommy Farr, British Empire champion, before he fights Louis.

"I am going to fight Farr in London for the world's championship," he said. 'If I win I am ready to fight anyone else."

Farr, however, has called off the Schmeling match, claiming he will go to the United States to meet Louis instead.

County League Meets Tonight

Tonight at 8 o'clock, in Sporting Goods Store, managers of Lawrence County League baseball teams will gather for an important meeting, Bill Andrews announced today.

Representatives of West Side Tigers and Wampum are asked to be present. Any team interested in joining the circuit for the second half is requested to send a representative to the meeting.

Correct this sentence: "The government required me to pay only fifty dollars income tax," said the radical "but I paid a nickle more."

Somebody Is Quite Wrong

Tommy Farr Cannot Possibly Fight Louis And Schmeling In September

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 2.—Not wishing to make a point of being an authority on hocus pocus, I can only say that currently I'm a little confused as to whether Promoter Mike Jacobs intends to use Soldier Bartfield or the fourth Marx brother against Joe Louis at the Yankee stadium in September. It can't be, as announced, Tommy Farr, the Englishman.

For almost in a dead heat with Promoter Jacobs' announcement, the London papers arrived today and there on the front page of the Daily Sketch and Daily Mirror are very handsome half-tones of the official signing between Farr and Max Schmeling for a fall showing at White City, London. In other words Farr did sign for Schmeling and he'll meet him, as contracted, or the next thing he'll meet is his creditors.

The British are very old-fashioned about that. Once you're down on white paper to render services, you render promptly—or steps are taken. They won't even let you leave the country until the contract is fulfilled and anything Manager Broadribb may have said to the contrary is so much idle and unadulterated drool.

How dreadful and wicked for that fellow to incorporate his yacht to dodge taxes! Er—wonder if you could incorporate a four-year old sedan.

Hurls One Ball, And Wins Game

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 2.—The left-handed Al Smith achieved the easiest victory on his Polo grounds' career when Wally Berger's pinch home run gave the Giants an 8-to-6 victory over the Phillies.

He obtained it with one pitch.

Called to Dick Coffman's relief with two out in the ninth, Al's first pitch produced a fly that Joe Moore caught.

Whereupon the Giants staged their thrilling rally, and as the pitcher of the moment Smith got official credit for the victory when Berger whaled his home run out of the park.

TALES IN TIDBITS

By BILI BRAUCHER
Central Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 2.—The Tidbits department is picking the American league to win the All-Star game at Washington, July 7, but is unable to offer a very good reason . . . just a hunch. . . . Those Dodgers are beginning to win some ball games and some attention . . . they're just as tough on the road as they are at home. . . . Capacity of the Washington ball park, scene of the All-Star game, is 32,000. . . . American drivers say American cars aren't built for such a test as the 300-mile Vanderbilt road race at Roosevelt raceway, and haven't much of a chance to beat the European buggies . . . but the scatterbolts from abroad are similarly handicapped at Indianapolis. . . . In event the ball players do join that union, will they get time and a half for 10-inning games?

In their first 61 games this year the Giants drew 831,249 paid admissions, averaging 13,627 per game, which promises a new record. . . . In their first 30 home games, the Yankees won all but six. . . . Have you noticed how creaky old Heinie Manush is mistreating that mangoe for dear old Brooklyn? . . . Minneapolis hotels are refusing reservations for the week end of the Minnesota-Notre Dame game. . . . your old friend Rabbit Maranville is making those Montreal Royals hustle . . . none of the athletes stands around whittling while Rabbit is running the team.

Maybe Dizzy Dean has buttoned up his vocal department for a while . . . he refused an invitation to address a fans' meeting at Alton, Ill., the other day. . . . Newsom and Chapman have helped the Boston Red Sox tremendously . . . especially Chapman, who has been playing like Ty Cobb since getting away from the Senators; the Bostonese have taken on new spirit and fire, with the Alabama speedboy blazing the way.

Clark Griffith has put the finger on Oral Hildebrand of the Browns, advising Prexy Will Harridge that the St. Louis pitcher should be placed under surveillance or something. . . . One of Hildy's shoots broke Al Simmons' little finger and knocked a knuckle loose. . . . Griff charges that Hildy is a confirmed duster . . . and Simmons adds that the Brownie hurler has been throwing at him ever since he came up to the majors. . . . Lou Chiozza, who is doing a nice job at third for the Giants, pronounces his name Keyotza. . . . Lou's family runs a restaurant in Memphis, and they say that Luigi is a pretty good cook.

Dick Bartell's five-year-old son, Skippy, cheers him shrilly whenever his pop comes to bat in the Polo Grounds. . . . Terry will pitch Mungo, Hubbell and Dean in that order against the American leaguers July 7. . . . Why did the Pirates give the Dodgers Waite Hoyt? . . . I understand the answer to that one is that when the Bucs traded Birkofer to Brooklyn in the Ed. Brandt deal, Pie Traynor promised to send Grimes another pitcher if Birkofer's sore arm didn't get better by June 15 . . . Birky's arm got worse instead of better . . . so Pie called Mister Hoyt aside sadly and said farewell.

When he sent Pitcher Whitey Moore to Syracuse, Manager Charley Dressen of the Reds lost a hat to Bill Terry, who bet Chuck in the merry spring that Whitey wouldn't be around all season.

Fishermen Have Little Success At Pymatuning

(International News Service)

SHARON, Pa., July 2.—Some 65,000,000 fishes still swam around in the smooth waters of Pymatuning Lake today despite the fact that more than 3,000 anglers tried their darndest to empty the pond on the first day of officially sanctioned fishing at the newly-created "fisherman's paradise."

Sunfish, bullheads and carp were found in abundance and few fishermen went home with empty creels. Only a small catch of bass and other game fish was reported. Probably due, according to Charles A. French, chairman of the Board of Fish Commissioners, to the fact that few anglers knew the location of feeding grounds.

Alone!

A tear trickled down a wrinkled cheek. Poor lonely old soul. A companion of forty-five years of happiness taken from her when she needed him most. Couldn't the driver have seen that she and Daddy were just a bit unsteady—a trifle bewildered? Couldn't he have been just a little more careful?

It's hard to believe that 55,727 persons were injured by highway accidents last year in Pennsylvania, but it's true. YOUR HELP IS NEEDED.

STOCKS

Stock Market Is Irregular

Evening Up Process Before 3-Day Holiday Week-end Is Seen

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 2.—The stock market was highly irregular this afternoon as the list reflected evening-up before the 3-day holiday week-end.

Steels and rails were mostly lower while utilities, aviations and some of the coppers and motors advanced.

U. S. Steel was down from the start though it cut a loss of around a point. Bethlehem and Republic showed a firmer tendency while Youngstown was easy.

Chrysler was more subdued and higher most of the time after yesterday's erratic performance. Other auto shares were steady.

Gains in utilities ran to around a point as the group ran into a buying flurry. New York Steam issues scored wide gains overnight on approval of the amended Consolidated Edison exchange offer.

Gains in aviations ran to over a point. Most of the coppers and amusements were higher, and the rails down with the exception of C. & O. Rubbers were mixed and chemicals weak. Grains swung over a wide range while bonds were better with the exception of government issues.

Price Of Coal Is Increased

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 2.—A general 25 cents-per-ton increase in the retail price of coal went into effect here today. Higher mine prices, labor taxes and other costs necessitated the raise, H. L. Hudson, president of the Pittsburgh Retail Coal Merchants association, said. The new price brings the cost of the best quality four-inch lump (for domestic consumption) up to $5 per ton, delivered at the curb.

Stock Exchange Closed Saturday For Three Days

Governing Board Of Market Votes To Close For Another Three-Day Holiday

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 2.—The New York Stock Exchange governing board voted Thursday to close on Saturday to make a 3-day holiday of the July 4 week-end.

The action came as a surprise in view of the opposition expressed by the association of stock exchange firms, comprising Wall Street's biggest wire houses.

This makes the second Saturday holiday in little more than a month. The exchange closed three days over Memorial Day. There were 634 names, nearly half the exchange membership, on the petition to close this Saturday.

Curb exchange governors, meeting at the same time, also voted to close on Saturday.

R. I. BANS LIQUOR "ON THE CUFF"

(International News Service)

SOUTH KINGSTOWN, R. I.—Liquor "on the cuff" across the bar in this state is now illegal, according to decision of District Court Judge Stephen J. Casey.

His ruling came in a case of Edward A. Comber, Narragansett license holder against a baker seeking recovery of $183.30 of which $105.90 was for liquor over the bar during a period of two years.

The judge ruled it was his opinion liquor laws of the state were specifically designed to curb the evil of permitting men to drink more than they could pay for in cash.

Flood Control Bill Veto Is Hinted Today

House Seeks To Upset Precedent In Refusing To Incorporate Bill In Army Bill

ISSUE WILL BE SETTLED

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 2—A presidential veto of the flood control appropriation bill was hinted in the senate today after the house won its unprecedented fight to strip all such funds from the regular army appropriation bill.

The flood control bill, as passed separately by the senate, carried $60,000,000 in cash and authority to enter $38,000,000 of contracts for construction work on all national rivers, outside the Mississippi river basin. Many of the most important projects on which work would start are in the New England, New York, Pennsylvania, the Ohio valey and in the far west.

It also carried $45,000,000 in cash and authority to enter $10,000,000 of contracts on Mississippi valley projects.

Refusal Of House.

Previously, the house had authorized only $30,000,000 of cash and use of $30,000,000 of relief labor on the national program and $22,500,000 in cash and use of $22,500,000 of relief labor on the Mississippi valley. It gave no authority to enter future contracts.

The hint of a presidential veto lay in the action of the house in refusing to incorporate these flood control appropriations in the regular army bill. This was contrary to all precedents, senators said.

House leaders raised a constitutional issue They originally passed the army bill with only military appropriations in it and then enacted a second bill, with flood control funds and appropriations for river and harbor developments. When the senate combined the two bills, house leaders charged it with invading the exclusive province of initiating revenue legislation. The senate surrendered since army appropriations were due yesterday, when the new fiscal year started.

A finish fight in the future over the constitutional issue was promised by senate leaders. It has been a thorn between the two bodies for years, without ever being fought to a conclusion.

TENNESSEE ENACTS 1216 NEW LAWS

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—If you want to do something it might be wise to stop and ask:

"Is there a law against it?"

It hasn't of course gone that far, but in this state today there are in all, including private, local and state acts, exactly 1216 new acts.

Written into the statute books at the recent session of the state legislature 311 of the acts have statewide application. The others had either local application or were for private invididuals such as giving one man the right to practice optometry, another the right to practice pharmacy, another to have his name changed.
